Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever. Hebrews 13:8

What does this really mean? We know that Jesus made the promise to be with us until the end of the age. We know that His Death and Resurrection happened for all people of all time. Some people ask why the Church does not keep up with the time. Maybe it is because the times are not always following God's law. We should not modify our theology to become popular. But neither should we set out to persecute those who disagree with us. Jesus was very straightforward with the religious officials when He called them to task. But it was always done with love. Many times we condemn and lack the compassion needed in the situation. That only pushes people away. That is not our mission. We can stand for the Truth but we can do it in a way that is loving and compassionate. Remember that we all live in glass houses.
