“No one can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and money.”
Matthew 6:24

It is not money that is the problem. One of the most misquoted passages in Scripture actually says that “the love of money is the root of all evil,” not that money itself is the root of all evil. Face it. We need money to survive, to provide for ourselves and our families. But when the pursuit of money becomes more important than the purpose of that money, we have gone astray. Having nice things is all well and good but if you neglect your brother's need in obtaining those things, what does that say about you? God is first. Be careful not to be placing anything ahead of Him.
