And without faith it is impossible to please him, for whoever would draw near to God must believe that he exists and that he rewards those who seek him. Hebrews 11:6

It is logical that, in order to be in relationship with God, one must first believe that God exists. But believing that God exists is only a part of it. You must see God as more than an idea. God is a Person, not in the way that we understand. But to be in relationship, we must recognize the personhood of the other. Embrace that God is more than just a notion and then enter into the most important relationship of your life.
