Remember those who are in prison, as though in prison with them, and those who are mistreated, since you also are in the body. Hebrews 13:3

Since each and every person has a dignity innate and inseparable from their very being, we must treat each as a child of God. They may not look like us. They may not have the same customs as us. They may even worship differently than we do. But they are still made in the image and likeness of God and deserve respect. Even if they have committed terrible acts, they are no less human. That is difficult when we see people committing atrocities but there is nothing that anyone can possibly do that will stop God from loving them. And we are called to love one another as Jesus loves us. That does not leave much wiggle room.
