Twelfth Sunday in Ordinary Time

We get just a smidgen of JOB this week, but it's enough to give us a glimpse into what is surely the most beautiful hymn to nature in all literature. If you haven't read the last chapters of JOB, do yourself a huge favor. Take your bible to the beach, or the mountains, or your favorite place to bird-watch, or, YES, the ZOO this summer, or just keep it handy as you watch any of the stunning David Attenborough nature films. Read chapters 38-42 under the stars, with a flashlight, while camping this summer.

If you don't burst into a few verses of "How Great Thou Art" as you read about how God takes care of each star in the heavens, and every tiny sea creature, stop and read it again, slowly. It will slow your pulse, and relax your breathing.

This is the section where God finally shows up to answer JOB'S challenge. And, by the way, where do we possibly get the phrase The patience of JOB? He's roaringly impatient through the entire book, and who can blame him? If you think you've had a bad day---and if you did, please accept my heartfelt condolences---remember that JOB lost his crops, his workers, and all his children on the same day.

It's an ancient folktale, of course, but the very best parts are at the end, when God lets JOB know that God's been with him all along. And here's the comforting part: God shows up in the whirlwind, in the chaos, in the unknowing, in the storm at sea. Are you feeling tossed and thrown out of the boat? Lucky you. That's where God lives.

Can you sense God's presence in your own challenges?

Duodécimo Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario

Se nos da solo una probadita de Job esta semana, pero es suficiente para darnos una idea de lo que ciertamente es el himno a la naturaleza más hermoso de toda la literatura. Si no has leído los últimos capítulos de Job, hazte un gran favor. Llévate tu biblia a la playa, o a las montañas, o a tu lugar favorito donde observas los pájaros, o, Sí, al zoológico este verano, o simplemente tenla a la mano mientras vez cualquiera de los impresionantes documentales sobre la naturaleza de David Attenboro. Lee los capítulos 38-42 bajo las estrellas con una linterna mientras acampas este verano.

Si no comienzas a cantar algunos versos de "Cuan Grande es Él" mientras lees de como Dios cuida cada estrella en el cielo, y cada diminuta criatura de mar, detente y léelo otra vez, lentamente. Te va a bajar el pulso y relajará tu respiración.

Esta es la sección donde por fin Dios se presenta para responder el desafío de Job. Y, por cierto, ¿De dónde sacamos esa frase La Paciencia de Job? Job se desborda de impaciencia durante toda la historia, y ¿Cómo podríamos culparlo? Si crees que has tenido un mal día—y si lo tuviste, por favor acepta mi más sentido pésame—recuerda que Job perdió su cosecha, sus trabajadores, y a todos sus hijos en el mismo día.

Es un cuento popular antiguo, por supuesto, pero la mejor parte está al final, cuando Dios le deja saber a Job que ha estado con el todo él tiempo. Y la parte reconfortante es esta: Dios aparece en el torbellino, en el caos, en lo desconocido, en la tormenta en el mar. ¿Te sientes sacudido y arrojado fuera del barco? Estás de suerte. Ahí es donde vive Dios.

¿Puedes sentir la presencia de Dios en tus propios desafíos?
