Form Community. Share the Good News of Christ. Be Witnesses for Christ in Everything We Do.

This spring's balmy weather has been slow in coming and now it looks like summer's heat may come early. Here in Northwest Iowa, we talk a lot about the weather. How much snow are we going to get? We have had not enough rain. We have had too much rain! The winds were terrible yesterday. Talk about the weather is almost always very close to any Iowa's conversation. Here on the north central plains of North America, we live close to the land and the weather that whirls around us drives much of the way that we respond to life. We are blessed by the beauty of four dynamic seasons and the power and the grandeur of God's creation can be seen very close at hand.

The very first paragraphs of the Catechism of the Catholic Church state: "In the order and beauty of creation, one can come to a knowledge of God as the origin and end of the universe." (CCC#32) The Catechism goes on to quote St. Augustine, who said: "Question the beauty of the earth, question the beauty of the sea, question the beauty of the air dis-tending and diffusing itself, question the beauty of the sky....their beauty is a profession of faith. Who made them if not the Beautiful One who is not subject to change?" (CCC #32) We can begin to come to the knowledge and love of God when we contemplate the beauty and magnificent power of creation.

Our pioneer ancestors came to this vast prairie and carved out a place for us. Those brave souls often encountered the hard and brutal edges of nature's forces. Cold winters and scorching summers. Dry seasons and drenching rains. We live in a time when many of us are insulated from the harshest conditions that nature can provide. And yet the breathtaking power of God's creation can teach us great lessons.

As the seasons change and draw us from one year to another, I encourage you to all take a bit of time to first experience the beauty of the world around you and to allow that beauty to move you to a deeper appreciation of the presence of God in His creation. Again, the Catechism of the Church guides us in a beautiful way: "God himself created the visible world in all its richness, diversity and order. ...The Sacred Scriptures teach us the truths revealed by God for our salvation, permitting us to recognize the inner nature, the value and the ordering of the whole of creation to the praise of God." (CCC#337) Taking a bit of quiet time to be moved by the changing of the seasons can open us up to God. May the reflection of God's magnificence in the wonders of creation draw us to praise and glorify our Loving Creator. Have a wonderful Spring!

Welcome to our guests and visitors.

To help with costs of the visit Connie T moved and Ramona seconded that our court pledge $1000 and we are challenging the KC's to do the same. Groups from other local parishes will be helping defray expenses. More details as the Sept 30/Oct 1 date gets closer.

of our church

We just want to say THANK YOU to our wonderful volunteers who give of their time and talent to make the projects and ministries at St. Joseph a success. As we head into our busy season, please know that we appreciate you everyday.

If you are currently not volunteering, call the parish office. We always have work that needs to be done.
