Young at Heart

Young at Heart returns on September 1!

We will meet in the parish center for social time at 10am, have Mass at 11am, and then have lunch together (Broccoli Cheese Soup with all the trimmings). All parishioners 55 and older are welcome to join us. PLEASE, if you have traveled or been in a large or high risk indoor venue the week before, help protect our most vulnerable parishioners by choosing not to attend, so that we can continue to meet without interruption by covid.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

The next regular meeting (2nd Thursday monthly) of the William Eagen Council will be September 14 at 7:30pm in the church basement/cafeateria.

From the Pastor

A New Parish Rectory: Last week I wrote about the recent decision to vacate the current rectory, find a house in Kirksville to serve as a suitable rectory, and raze the current rectory and remediate the lot. This week I'll write about the recommended budget for the purchase of a new rectory, along with the consideration of location.

The finance council approved a budget of $300,000 for the house. We arrived at that figure after having looked at a few of the houses on the market that fit the requirements for a parish rectory for Mary Immaculate. We are looking for a house that would not just house the pastor and have a few guest rooms. Most important is that we will be able to provide a long-term solution to a problem that has been around since the priests moved out of the parish center.

Mary Immaculate is the largest parish in this area of the Diocese. As the recent personnel announcements from the Diocese indicated, we are serving and will continue to serve as a hub for pastoral leadership for many years to come. The goal is to have a house that would have at least a master suite and a secondary suite that could serve as a residence for a retired priest in service, much as Fr. Gerry Kaimann lives at Palmyra, an international priest serving a transitional period of service, a transitional deacon, and/or a seminarian.

Additional guest rooms are always a plus. Since Kirksville is so far away from the Diocesan centers, the capacity to house a priest's support group would be beneficial. Priestly fraternity and mutual support is essential to our well-being. I have committed to meeting with my brother priests regularly, but I will always travel to their houses since guest space is so limited here.

One consideration is finding a house that would hold its value in the coming years. We had looked at houses that might work as far as size and accommodations but would require some major upgrades immediately and in the years to come. Newly built houses are smaller and are going for $400,000 and over. They are also located further away from the present campus.

Location, as they say, is everything. But what location? Suitable houses near our existing campus just aren't on the market. Whatever house we purchase would require a commute. Not having a house so close to the church as we have now is a different model, but it is one that many parishes are adopting around the country. Mary Immaculate has had the office and the rectory separate for many years. For my last two pastorates I had to commute to the church and/or office. My nine years in Vienna I had three parishes that were at a minimum 11 miles away from where I lived. For seven years at the Lake, I lived about four miles from the church campus. In fact, I lived closer to more of my parishioners at that rectory than I would have had I lived at the church, which had no rectory. I'm used to spending most of the day at the church and office and while I do like the convenience of walking, a five to seven minute drive doesn't concern me insofar as my or future priests' availability.

The house we are currently looking at is 2800 Weatherstone Drive in the southwest part of town, a house three miles from our present campus. It is 3,200 square feet with a large full, finished basement with a bedroom and bath downstairs. The master bedroom is on one side of the house and the two guest bedrooms are on the other, behind the spacious kitchen and living area. I envision this house as an opportunity for me to host dinners and other gatherings which isn't possible in the current rectory. The house at this time is really a turnkey solution.

Funding for the house will come from our savings on deposit at the chancery. The vast majority of our savings have come from special bequests, grants and gifts, such as the $500,000 bequest from the Sandra K. Reavey estate. Some of that money was used to update the church, including putting in a long-needed new HVAC system. There was a $61,000 net profit that the parish got by selling the old rectory at 902 Washington that added to our savings. At this time we have over $1,125,000 on deposit at the chancery.

Offertory collections and tithing have allowed us to meet our budget these past few years. Our move to a stewardship model of tithing is making progress in engaging parishioners in time, talent and treasure.

This year's budget poses a particular challenge as we strive to maintain an 85% parity for school salaries compared to the local school district. So far in this fiscal year that began July 1, we have been making our expenses. Tithing through offertory collections is up compared to the last two years.

I understand that this is a significant event in the life of a parish. I appreciate the support parishioners have expressed for finding a new rectory. I also appreciate that this is a significant expense, but one that we have put off for quite some time. My hope is that I remain pastor in Kirksville for many years to come and the new rectory will make a significant contribution to my health and well-being and the good of the parish in general. The new rectory will be a sign that we are offering space for hospitality, fellowship, and lodging for another priest if the possibility arises.

Again, if you would like to discuss this with me personally or make a comment, please drop me a line or call the parish office. I appreciate the assistance of the administration commission, the parish council, and the finance council as we have come to this decision. I also appreciate the assistance of the diocesan facilities manager, Brad Copeland, for the time he has spent checking out the properties that we have considered.

In the next two weeks we will be working on the sales contract, especially ensuring that the proper inspections reveal all that they need to reveal so we are assured of an asset for our parish that will hold its value through the coming years. In the meanwhile, let us continue to invoke the intercession and guidance of St. Joseph as we move forward on the purchase. Thank you so much for your attention to and consideration of this important matter.

Local Benevolence Update

Thank you to all those who are tithing so that we can support local benevolence as a part of our parish budget! And thanks also to those who give over and above to our charitable efforts.

From mid-July to mid-August we helped with 14 utility bills and 12 nights of emergency lodging. One of our in-person requests was a lady we've helped before, who came in to say that she has secure housing now, and a part time job where she was very quickly named Employee of the Month, and hopes to be promoted to full time very soon. She is one of many of our neighbors whose lives were upended by a serious medical event that rendered them jobless and then homeless. We don't always hear the happy endings, so we were delighted by her visit!

We have a parishioner family connected to a family that lost everything in the Baring tornado. They were in urgent need of mattresses, and two twins for the children had not yet been donated. We have worked with Scrappers Den and Salvation Army before, as they both sell refurbished mattresses. Many thanks to Andrea Davis from the Social Concerns Commission who handled the details of finding the mattresses, getting a price, picking up the check to pay, and arranging with the store manager to hold the mattresses for pickup.

John Doyle, the mobile resource coordinator for Catholic Charities of Central and Northern Missouri, was in the area last week, and we had a chance to speak. His office is able to host a clinic of sorts, offering budgeting and housing help, along with laptops to fill out online job applications. Attendance is incentivized with gas cards. I've reached out to our local benevolence collaborators to see if we might be able to create a list of invitees together. The Salvation Army has offered their location, which would be more appropriate than our parish center.

We also had a visit from Erika Sterup from the Pantry for Adair County Board, who is asking around about a) emergency food supplies and b) barriers that keep people from using the Pantry. I showed her our wildly successful brown bags, and told her that the biggest issue I'm seeing is people who are unable to pick up from the pantry because they have no vehicle, and it's too much to carry even if they are able to walk or bike that far. I'll keep you posted as I hear more!

Thanks again for being the hands of Christ and bringing the kingdom of God to Adair County!

Lynn
