TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

In ancient Rome, the beautiful month of May was dedicated to the goddess Flora, the patroness of flowers and new life. May 1 was considered the beginning of abundant growth, and a day for public festivals aimed at expelling winter. Even after Christianity took hold, the customs of the pagan feast lingered behind. Long ago, there was a thirty-day devotion to Mary, sometimes called "Lady Month," which began on August 15. By the eighteenth century, the custom of assigning devotions to months of the year was developing. June, for example, was the month of the Sacred Heart, and October was for the Holy Rosary. Beginning with the Jesuit Order in Rome and spreading throughout the world, May has been celebrated as the month of Mary, the Blessed Mother, for more than two hundred years. That was a welcome remedy to some enduring pagan practices, such as maypole dancing and the crowning of the May Queen. Some historians say that in ancient times the May Queen was actually a human sacrifice. Devoting May to Mary is undoubtedly a better thing to do.

CATHOLIC COMMUNICATIONS Through Internet, social networks, television, radio, and print, the Catholic Communication Campaign (CCC) helps the Church spread the Gospel message through the media locally and nationally. Half of all donations to the CCC collected in our diocese stay in our diocese to support local communications needs, such as radio and television programming and diocesan publications.

TRUST

Unsettling reports concerning Russia's involvement in the 2016 election have created a good deal of insecurity among social media users and made Facebook adherents to think twice about what they can trust. This instance is only one of many that may cause any of us to feel ambivalent about what claim anyone can make about being trustworthy. Given all the recent controversy, it would seem wise to reconsider the boundaries that hold us in trust with each other and recognize the limits that trust can bear.

There seems to be an alternative to the dystopian view on the future of the digital age. Apparently in Estonia there resides a more utopian view and a present that is a model for the practice of democratic ideals via digital technology. Some of the predictions of the digital age promised a paperless society. According to a report on the PBS News Hour, the people of Estonia do not write checks to pay for anything. They do not file taxes—the government sends an account balance to every citizen for review. Practically every exchange that tradition involved paper has been digitized. They even vote online-I guess that shows that the people of Estonia feel secure enough to trust that their private lives will not become exposed by their practical use of digital technology.

The paperless age may have come to Estonia, but we are still holding to tradition ways of verifying and confirming a secure and pristine way of holding an identity in the virtual space and all the while protecting it with passwords and cryptography. Essentially, it feels like we are painting ourselves into a corner—always questioning between the balance of our public and private lives.

If you compare the utopian report with the dystopian, it's evident neither is the ideal. Vulnerabilities abound and the unscrupulous will always find ways of undermining our protections. Still, if we are unable to trust one another, we are less capable of conducting a civil arbitration of how we go about settling disputes. We might consider how our tradition ways of using paper continue to have meaning in the lives of many people and how we haven't yet trusted enough in the technology of the digital age. Estonia's venture into the digital age was different than our experience in the US. Their delayed access to digital technology made them ideally suited to base an economy on digital principles—it would have been too costly for them to do otherwise.

As we venture further in the digital age, the balance we strike between what is private and public will help us to determine what is trustworthy or not. Estonia seems to have struck that balance.

TRAFFIC AND PARKING UPDATE

Beginning April 30th, concrete roadway removal and replacement work is expected to begin on Tait Avenue and go through May till Memorial Weekend (pending any unforeseen issues). During this time our parking lot on Tait Avenue will be unavailable on weekdays and accessible ONLY via the fire lane (wraps around the Admin building) off of Lyndon Avenue in the evenings and weekends. As needed, we are arranging for more temporary parking off of Bean on the blacktop area along the gym.

The crews will also continue working on the curb, gutter, sidewalk, and driveway removal work will also continue in the Almond Grove area. Crews will continue work on the removal and replacement of the curbs, gutters, sidewalks and driveways on Massol, and will plan to begin (yet to be confirmed) on the north side of Bean Avenue beginning at N. Santa Cruz Avenue. When the work on Bean begins, the normal procedure would be to implement the one lane - one way westbound traffic pattern for the blocks under construction.

Please check the website, stmaryslg.org for any updates regarding the construction project and how it affects St. Mary's parking and access. The town also provide constructions updates at www.losgatosca.gov/ AlmondgrovePhase2
