

God's Kingdom

Begins Here and Now

The First Reading reports on the Church's progress in early times. St. Paul reminds us that as Christians we must undergo many hardships in witnessing to the Faith. Though very few of us will ever be arrested or martyred for being Christian, we all have a price to pay if we truly witness to the Faith in word and deed. The Apostles always attribute all their mission's success to God. This is essential; for it is easy to be prideful when things go well. The humble recognition of God as the Source of every good, furthers their success. ● In the Responsorial Psalm, the theme of God's love relationship with man and ours with Him, begins to unfold and continues through the Second Reading and the Gospel. Psalm 145 is a hymn of praise. God's kingdom is best understood as His reign (more an action than an object). It exists whenever and wherever God's law is obeyed and His love revealed. God's reign is one of love and He conquers with His love, for He is the King of all hearts. ● The Second Reading describes what awaits us after death: the new life, where we are not subject to the limitations of time and the world we now live in. Even our love for God and others will have no limitation. God has taught us love's true meaning. His love for us and our love for Him will be perfect in heaven. This heaven is not so much a time or place, as it is a relationship with God and others. ● In John's Gospel we see that glory means to live in love. Jesus has proven Himself to be the fullness of God's love in His willingness to leave His heavenly abode, become one of us, and then die on the cross for us. This astounding lesson in love is our challenge. In as much as we love God and one another, we are like Him, for God is love. Love is the basis and totality of the law. When we live in love, we live in God, and God in us. So His reign, His Kingdom begins here and now with His love and our living it.

Prayer of the Week

Lord God, you have revealed to the nations your saving power and filled all ages with the words of a new song. Hear the echo of this hymn. Give us voice to sing your praise throughout this season of joy. We ask this through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Faith First

Ordination to the Priesthood of Andrew Opsahl, O.P.

Several years ago, Andy Opsahl was a parishioner at Sacred Heart. While attending here, he was involved in several ministries and was a supporter of Schola Cantorum. He engaged in a period of discernment, and as a result, he entered the seminary to become a Dominican priest. Andy will be ordained on May 31 at St. Dominic's Church, San Francisco. ● We thank God for his vocation and for Andy's responding "yes" to the call. We ask God's blessings upon his life and his ministry as a priest.

The Kingdom of God: Its Meaning

It is generally agreed among Scripture scholars that there are three dimensions of the Kingdom of God, each of which shed light on this important concept. The first is the Christological dimension. Here we see that the Kingdom is not a thing, it is not a geographical dominion like worldly kingdoms. It is a person; it is Christ. By the way in which Jesus speaks of the Kingdom of God, he leads people to realize the overwhelming fact that in him (Jesus) God himself is present among them, that he is God's presence. ● The second is Mystical dimension that the Kingdom resides in the human heart. Early Church Father, Origen wrote, "those who pray for the coming of the Kingdom of God pray without any doubt for the Kingdom of God that they contain in themselves, and they pray that this kingdom might bear fruit and attain its fullness." ● The third is the Ecclesiastical dimension. Here we see that the Kingdom of God is in the here and now, present in and through the Church. Yet it is a mixed reality that will only be perfectly realized at the end of history. This current "mixed" state can be seen as the Church on earth which now grows in the field of the world with both weeds and wheat until the harvest when Christ says he will "tell the reapers, Gather the weeds first and bind them in bundles to be burned. But gather the wheat into my barn" (Matthew 13:30).
