THOUGHT OF THE DAY

RESEMBLANCE

The dignity of resembling the Almighty is common to all people; we should then love them all as ourselves, as living images of the Deity.
It is in this that we belong to God.

—St. Francis de Sales

Thirty-third Sunday in Ordinary Time

WHEN? WHEN? WHEN?

Biblical authors and characters are frustratingly elusive whenever we try to pin them down on the precise time of the end of the world. We tend to think that since it's a scenario they love to describe in so much detail, and one about which they seem to have so much other information, that they'd be able to give us a date and time to put into our Day of the Lord planners. But, as much as the Holy Spirit has inspired them, they have not been given the precise chronology; that remains to be revealed by God and God alone. What may be most frustrating to us is not so much not having the clear-cut information, but rather the types of lives this lack of information calls us to lead. Malachi tells us the blazing day will come, but our only way to be saved by the healing sun of justice is to live in awe and fear of the Lord. Paul instructs us not to be idle, but to work for our place in the community awaiting Christ's return. Jesus himself doesn't give the day or time, but knows that those who follow him will have to persevere day by day, in steadfast and joyful hope.

IN GOD'S TIME

It was a very strong component of Israel's piety that the destruction of the Jerusalem temple would signal the end of the world. In Matthew's and Mark's presentation of today's Gospel scene, Jesus leaves the temple to foretell its downfall; he makes the connection to Israel's belief. In Luke, Jesus remains in the temple, predicting its downfall as one of many tribulations that the early Christian community will endure. This is a broader view of the end-times. Throughout history, many monumental buildings rose in splendor and fell violently. In our own day we have had some experience of this. Jesus seems to know the natural human reaction that when this happens to us, then surely it means the end of the world, even though the same thing has happened time and time again over the face of God's earth and the course of centuries. We are reminded today that God's plans are not tied to our architecture; God's time is not bound by our calendars. Whoever says they are is a liar. What God's own word calls us to do today is to persevere in faithful lives, until that day—whenver it may be, however it may happen—is fulfilled.

Trigésimotercer Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario

¿CUÁNDO? ¿CUÁNDO? ¿CUÁNDO?

Los autores y personajes bíblicos se frustran y se vuelven evasivos cuando tratamos de obligarlos a que nos digan claramente le hora en que llegará el fin del mundo. Nos parece natural, ya que describen la escena tan al detalle y tienen tanta información sobre ella, que también nos puedan ofrecer fecha y hora para apuntarlas en nuestros calendarios de actividades. Pero, a pesar de que fueron inspirados por el Espíritu Santo, no han recibido la cronología exacta; esa fecha la conoce Dios, y nadie más que Dios. Pero lo que más nos frustra no es el no saber la fecha, sino la clase de vida que esta falta de información nos llama a llevar. El profeta Malaquías nos anuncia que el día ardiente como un horno va a venir y que nuestra única esperanza de salvarnos, por medio del Sol de Justicia que trae en sus rayos la salud, es vivir respetando el nombre de Dios. San Pablo nos exhorta a no estar ociosos, sino que trabajemos para merecer nuestro lugar en la comunidad que espera el regreso del Señor. Ni el mismo Jesús nos dice el día ni la hora, pero Él sabe que los que le siguen tienen que perseverar día a día con una esperanza que es a la vez firme y alegre.

A LA HORA QUE DIOS DIGA

Una parte muy importante de la piedad de Israel era que la destrucción del templo de Jerusalén significaría el fin del mundo. En las versiones según san Mateo y san Marcos del Evangelio de hoy, Jesús sale del templo para predecir su destrucción; así hace conexión con la creencia judía. Pero en el Evangelio según san Lucas, Jesús se queda en el templo y predice la destrucción de éste como una de las muchas tribulaciones que la comunidad cristiana de los primeros tiempos tendría que sufrir. Ésta es una visión más amplia del fin de los tiempos. A lo largo de la historia, muchos edificios monumentales que se levantaban con esplendor, más tarde han sido destruidos violentamente. Esto lo hemos visto en nuestros propios días. Jesús parece comprender que, cuando algo así nos sucede a nosotros, la reacción natural humana es creer que ésta es una señal de que el mundo se va a acabar, aunque esas mismas cosas han sucedido una y otra vez en muchas partes de la tierra, y a lo largo de la historia. Las lecturas de hoy nos recuerdan que los planes de Dios no están atados a nuestra arquitectura, y que la hora de Dios no se rige por nuestros calendarios. Quien diga lo contrario, miente. Lo que la palabra de Dios nos llama a hacer hoy es perseverar en la fidelidad, hasta que llegue la hora y se cumpla el día—cuando quiera que sea y como quiera que suceda.
