“YOU CALL THIS DONE, FATHER??”

It's done... sort of.

If things go according to plan, we will be in church this weekend for the first time in six weeks. Despite what you may see as an incomplete project, I am still happy to say I am glad to be “finished” – finished with our weekends in the gymnasium. The real sense of “finished” will be much longer in coming, but we all can handle that. It is a lot nicer to be in a beautiful place, built and designed for the sole purpose of worship of God in the liturgy and in personal prayer. We will also have the pleasure of unwrapping presents well beyond the Christmas season, as pieces of the project are completed week by week.

I've been so pleased with the teams working here to renovate our sacred space. They have done high quality work in the midst of a hustle and bustle environment. Like worker bees, they often are right on top of each other and yet still find a way to get along and keep at it. The results this past week have been impressive. The next week before Christmas looks to be the same, and we will hopefully have great decorations for Christmas. If you are willing to help with that, please pay attention to church announcements (sign up for Flocknote!) this upcoming week. Thank you for being willing to take part in making our church beautiful for the holiday!

Next weekend there are two Masses to attend. One for the 4th Sunday of Advent, and one for Christmas. There are lots of ways to fulfill these holy day obligations – choose your own adventure! Fr. Jake and I will be saying a whole lot of Masses in those days, and we look forward to praying with you all as we begin to adore the Holy Face of the Child Jesus together. O Come, All Ye Faithful!
