VISIONS

On Halloween, it will be one year since my installation as the Archbishop of Boston. Over the last 11 months, I have seen our amazing coastline from land and by sea. I have looked out over Boston from the Prudential tower and dived into plates of pasta in the North End. I have walked the galleries of the Museum of Fine Arts and peered down at Plymouth Rock. I have enjoyed sporting events at places like Cardinal Spellman in Brockton, Catholic Memorial in West Roxbury, and at the amazing Fenway Park.

I have seen dozens of beautiful churches that lift the spirit and visited Catholic schools that move the heart. I have shaken thousands of hands and prayed with people in more than 100 churches and chapels. I have hiked World's End in Hingham and looked out across the ocean from Cape Ann. I have marched in parades and processions. I have prayed with the elderly in care homes and with the young and their families in Boston Children's Hospital. I have walked Harvard Yard and sat on the floor in Lawrence to read to preschoolers. I have given glory to God in English, Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, and even a word or two in Vietnamese. Give me a couple of more years and I will know more about our region than many who have lived their whole lives in this amazing place.

I give thanks to God for calling me to this mission and I am in awe at the beauty and richness of our region, its culture, its landscape, its communities, universities, and institutions. But above all, the thing which most touches my heart are the people. It is that human quotient that makes a place a home and I feel at home here.

When God built His ultimate dwelling place, it was not a great work of stone, glass, and wood, but the most magnificent Cathedral, the Cathedral of His Beloved Son's Sacred Heart. Here is the origin and highest expression of our hope -- Jesus Christ who continuously pours Himself out for our redemption and renewal.

More than once since coming to Boston, I have been asked about my vision for the archdiocese. My first response to that question has been that I need to know and love this place first and foremost. My longer response is to say that ultimately the vision for the archdiocese is not something that I offer -- it is already found in the Word of God and in the person of Jesus. The vision is to have hearts full of love and trust in Him: "Jesus, meek and humble of heart, make my heart like unto thine." The vision is to preach Jesus Christ and Him crucified." (1 Cor 2:2)

With that vision before us, I have been paying attention and discerning where the Lord would have me apply myself. I see the unique gifts and blessings of this Church, and I see where we need strengthening. As this first year draws to a close, one element keeps arising in my reflections. I am convinced that the Lord desires the strengthening of parish life here in the Archdiocese of Boston.

Families of faith and parish families of faith are critical to the life of the Universal Church and all its many and varied ministries and apostolates. Our parishes have seen decades of challenges and the disruptions that come with generational and demographic change. I am so grateful to the faithful who support and sustain their parish communities. We would not be here without you.

Now I tell you what I have seen in this year -- that God is summoning people home to the faith and inspiring a new generation. There is a revival going on and I must ask more of all of us. We need communities that fan the flames of that revival, and we must build a worthy home for the folks that the Lord calls to His heart. In practical terms, this also means paying close attention to the priesthood -- to inviting vocations, forming seminarians, and offering ongoing formation for the sake of good and holy priests. Strengthening parish life will mean reinvigorating faith formation and Catholic education. I will not cease to listen and discern, but as I reach the end of year one, my focus is on parish life.

I can't wait to start year two!

Archbishop of Boston*

LIVE THE GOSPEL OF LIFE

"to imitate Christ and follow in his footsteps"

The Gospel of Life 51

Twenty-five years ago, Pope St. John Paul II wrote that the Gospel of life is at the heart of Jesus' saving message to the world (Evangelium vitae 1). In taking on human flesh, dwelling among us, and sacrificing his very life for our redemption, Christ reveals the profound dignity of every human person. This God-given dignity does not change with our stage of life, abilities, level of independence, or any other varying circumstance.

Rather, it is rooted in the permanent fact that each of us is made in the image and likeness of God, created to share in the very life of God himself. The human person is a "manifestation of God in the world, a sign of his presence, a trace of his glory" (EV 34). And we must reflect this truth in how we act and how we treat one another.

The truth of the Gospel of life is at the foundation of who we are as followers of Christ. In his earthly life, Jesus provided the perfect model for how we are to love our neighbor and live out the Gospel call: "Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me" (Mt. 25:40).

Jesus calls each of us to "care for the other as a person for whom God has made us responsible" (EV 87). The Gospel of life is intrinsic to the whole Christian life and foundational to the decisions we make on a daily basis. For, "the Gospel of God's love for man, the Gospel of the dignity of the person and the Gospel of life are a single and indivisible Gospel" (EV 2, emphasis added).

In his encyclical on the Gospel of life, Pope St. John Paul II recognizes the full range of threats against human life, from poverty and malnutrition to murder and war. He places particular emphasis, however, on threats to life at its beginning and end—precisely when it is most in need of protection. In modern times, children in their mothers' wombs and those approaching the end of their lives are certainly among the "least of these" in our world's estimation. Practices such as abortion and assisted suicide tragically reject the truth that human life is always to be cherished and defended with loving concern.

As the Church celebrates the 25th anniversary of Pope St. John Paul II's prophetic encyclical, let us reflect on how we personally live out the Gospel: Do I talk about and act towards others as I would talk about and treat Jesus himself? Do I inform myself of the Church's teachings and engage in the civic arena as first a follower of Christ? Do I support and advocate for laws and policies that protect and defend human life? Do I help pregnant and parenting mothers in need? Am I ready to support a loved one nearing death?

Through the intercession of Our Lady of Guadalupe, may Our Lord grant us the grace to truly and courageously live his Gospel of life.
