From the Administrator, Fr. Patrick Behm Week of July 25-30 Eucharistic Revival News

While we colloquially will use the term "Eucharistic Minister," this is actually an incorrect term. Technically, a "Eucharistic Minister" is someone who can offer Mass, namely, a priest or a bishop. An "ordinary minister of Holy Communion" is someone who normally distributes Holy Communion, either inside or outside of Mass, namely, a Bishop, a priest, or a deacon. An "extraordinary minister of Holy Communion" is a layperson who helps with the distribution of Holy Communion in the event that there are not enough ordinary ministers at a given liturgy. Thus, when present, one of our deacons (an "ordinary minister of Holy Communion") should distribute Holy Communion before a layperson (an "extraordinary minister of Holy Communion") even when not specifically ministering as a deacon at that particular Mass. This is not in any way to downplay the role of the laity! But, we must be careful that we not obscure the distinctions between clergy and laity. These are two equal, but nonetheless different, vocations.

To this point, the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops has written, "The need to avoid obscuring the role of the Priest and the Deacon as ordinary ministers of Holy Communion by an excessive use of extraordinary ministers might in some circumstances constitute a reason either for limiting the distribution of Holy Communion under both species or for using intinction instead of distributing the Precious Blood from the chalice." In essence, NOT distributing Holy Communion under both species on a regular basis is a constant visual reminder of the need to pray for more vocations to the priesthood and the diaconate.

Again, these are not better vocations, but they are different, and in most places, vocations to which there is a desperate shortage!

In coming columns in this space, I will write more about our Eucharistic faith and theology as we continue the parish phase of the Eucharistic Revival.

Blessings,
Fr. Behm

Please remember in your prayers the family of Mary Ann Haberl (July 22)
