From the Pastor, Fr. Patrick Behm

In the Gospel reading for the vigil Mass of Pentecost, which the Church celebrates this Saturday evening, there's an interesting, if not disconcerting line, "There was, of course, no Spirit yet, because Jesus had not yet been glorified." The doctrine of the Trinity teaches us that all Three Divine Persons--the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit--have all existed for eternity. In other words, there was never a moment in time in which the Holy Spirit did not exist. So, how do we reconcile this infallible teaching of the Church with the words of Scripture?

In the United States, we use the New American Bible translation for our Mass readings. Looking at Revised Standard Version gives us an insight into what St. John means in this line. The RSV translates the original Greek to say, "For as yet the Spirit had not been given, because Jesus was not yet glorified." This seems to indicate precisely what the faith teaches. . .that the Holy Spirit has existed for all eternity, but was not yet fully given to the Church until after the Ascension. St. Augustine says the same in his commentary on St. John's Gospel. He writes, "The Spirit of God was, i.e. was with God, before now; but was not yet given to those who believed in Jesus; for our Lord had determined not go give them the Spirit, till He was risen again: The Holy Ghost was not yet given, because that Jesus was not yet glorified."

So, you may be asking. . .why go into this? Who cares? I'm choosing to write about this topic this week for three reasons. First, because at first glance, this is a confusing line of the Biblical text. Second, because we as disciples of Jesus need to know that we can trust both the text of Scripture and the Church's interpretation of it. Third and finally, I want to remind each of us that we have been given the Holy Spirit! And we still have Him today! If you are reading this, and you are baptized, confirmed, and in a state of grace, the Holy Spirit dwells in you! Think what could be if we would all tap into this power of the Holy Spirit dwelling within us! Sick people would be healed! Dead people would be raised! And most importantly, the whole world would hear the saving message of the Gospel!

If last week's feast, the Ascension, was about the call to share the Gospel with the world, this week's feast is about giving us what, or more precisely, Who, we need so that we might be equipped to share the Gospel! The gift of the Spirit is not to remain dormant in us! Rather, the Spirit is meant to overflow from within us so that we as Christ's instruments might lead the whole world back to Him.

Veni, creator Spiritus! Come, Holy Spirit!
