We gave a daily instruction on right conduct when the readings were taken from the history of the patriarchs or the maxims of Proverbs. These readings were intended to instruct and train you, so that you might grow accustomed to the ways of our forefathers, entering into their paths and walking in their footsteps, in obedience to God's commands.

Now the season reminds us that we must speak of the mysteries, setting forth the meaning of the sacraments. If we had thought fit to teach these things to those not yet initiated through baptism, we should be considered traitors rather than teachers. Then, too, the light of the mysteries is of itself more effective where people do not know what to expect than where some instruction has been given beforehand.

Open then your ears. Enjoy the fragrance of eternal life breathed on you by means of the sacraments. We explained this to you as we celebrated the mystery of "the opening" when we said: Effetha, that is, be opened. Everyone who was to come for the grace of baptism had to understand what he was to be asked, and must remember what he was to answer. This mystery was celebrated by Christ when he healed the man who was deaf and dumb in the Gospel which we proclaimed to you.

After this, the holy of holies was opened up for you; you entered into the sacred place of regeneration. Recall what you were asked; remember what you answered. You renounced the devil and his works, the world and its dissipation and sensuality. Your words are recorded, not on a monument to the dead but in the book of the living.

There you saw the levite, you saw the priest, you saw the high priest. Do not consider their outward form but the grace given by their ministries. You spoke in the presence of angels, as it is written: The lips of a priest guard knowledge, and men seek the law from his mouth, for he is the angel of the Lord almighty. There is no room for deception, no room for denial. He is an angel whose message is the kingdom of Christ and eternal life. You must judge him, not by his appearance but by his office. Remember what he handed on to you, weigh up his value, and so acknowledge his standing.

You entered to confront your enemy, for you intended to renounce him to his face. You turned towards the east, for one who renounces the devil turns towards Christ and fixes his gaze directly on him.

Social Justice Corner by Dan Gamble, Guest

We increase in love by many of the relationships in our life, but none so much as in supreme love of the Father who gave his Son to be our friend. But if anyone has the world's goods and sees his brother in need, yet closes his heart against him, how does God's love abide in him? 1 John 3:17-18.

When our youth wanted to do more to engage those in greater need, they courageously met the Esperanza International call to tirelessly bend rebar and dig over 150 feet of 3 foot deep trenches in Tijuana.

They engaged orphaned children who need to know the compassionate love of someone from the outside who might see and hear them. The youth opened their hearts and hands in charity that completely resonated with the answer to the earlier question from 1 John: Little children, let us not love in word or in speech, but in deed and truth.

One may point in word or speech to injustice or a wrong, yet fail to love in deed and truth. Knowing that nothing will quench our thirst for present and temporal justice but God's perfect love can stem the blame and can bring us closer to the most necessary action. This is the action we find in the Eucharist, for Jesus is the savior of the world and every soul. Loving our family can be very trying, but loving the poor or the stranger among us can start with a smile and willingness to meet their need for compassion. This is the deed and truth of God's love in us. This practice works, for as he becomes love in us, so the poor, the stranger, and our family will be loved.

Thanks be to God for the love of the youth in service which brings us all to greater love!
