GOSPEL MEDITATION - ENCOURAGE DEEPER UNDERSTANDING OF SCRIPTURE

What are you supposed to do about the bad behavior of the people around you? You know who I'm talking about. That family member, friend, coworker, or acquaintance who is quite immoral. On this front there are two lively options in our culture: bash the person to others (probably online) or pretend everything's fine. The former damages the person. The latter ignores reality. What to do?

Jesus' strategy in the Gospel of Matthew is as wise as it is difficult: go directly to the person, and then gradually expand the circle of intervention. Simple, often effective, and hard. But what we often miss is the context of the Lord's strategy, "If your brother sins against you..." Notice the italicized words. Is the person in a Christian familial bond with you? And was the action in question against you? If so, proceed with the plan. Fine. But how often we fret over the sins of those who either aren't our spiritual siblings or have done nothing directly to us. This is not an invitation to ignore injustice in the world. Rather, we should build bonds of fraternal love, and carefully discern when and how others' sins are indeed our concern. Sometimes they are. Other times — frequently, perhaps — they simply are not.

— Father John Muir

Forgiveness and Mercy

Then Peter came and said to him, "Lord, if another member of the church sins against me, how often should I forgive? As many as seven times?" Jesus said to him, "Not seven times, but, I tell you, seventy-seven times." (Matthew 18:21-22)

When someone hurts you, how do you forgive them?

Use this question for personal prayer, beginning a meeting, or conversations with others to prepare for the September 17, 2023 readings:

Reading I Sirach 27:30-28:7 Call to forgiveness and mercy

Reading II Romans 14:7-9 To live and die for Christ

Gospel Matthew 18:21:35 The merciless official

Saint John Chrysostom | September 13

Born in Antioch in the 4th century, and raised by his widowed mother, Saint John received a rigorous classical education. He was first called to the ascetic life, even spending time as an anchorite living in a cave near Antioch. However, this life of extreme mortification was hard on his physical body, and he eventually returned to the city to recover.

Saint John was ordained in 298. He spent the next 12 years preaching in the Cathedral of Antioch, and it was most likely during this time that he earned the name Chrysostom which means "goldenmouthed."

In 397 or 398 he was made archbishop of Constantinople against his will. This post placed Saint John in the midst of imperial politics. But he would not be drawn in. He kept a modest household without extravagance and refused to serve the sumptuous suppers for political supplicants that predecessors in the position had. He preached against corruption and decadence and fought for the reform of clergy even deposing corrupt bishops.

Unfortunately, this high moral stance made enemies of powerful people at court and in the Church. They conspired against him and eventually Saint John was exiled to Armenia. He died in exile in 407. He was made a Father of the Church at the Council of Chalcedon in 451 and declared a Doctor of the Church in 1568.

Should a Catholic Pursue an Annulment?

©LPi

Question: After a civil divorce, is a Catholic obligated to pursue an annulment?

Answer: Many Catholics are not exactly sure what an annulment does. An annulment does not deny that a marriage took place, nor does it deny that there once was love. It does not mean that people say anything untrue, such as they never loved each other or that everything in their marriage was wrong. An annulment does not negate children, nor make them illegitimate. An annulment addresses the spiritual aspect of marriage. In effect, an annulment says that at the time of the wedding, there was either something present or something absent that prevented the sacrament from taking place. It is a spiritual determination that, if granted in the affirmative, allows a person to marry in the Church.

Annulments have no legal standing and are unable to be used in a civil court. Therefore, a Catholic has no moral obligation to pursue an annulment. However, when the tragedy of divorce occurs, and there is no hope for reconciliation, annulments may help bring some spiritual closure to a person's life. Some people have found the process to be healing and others have found it to be difficult. Speak to your priest or a member of the Diocesan Tribunal staff to decide what is best for you.

ROSARY WORKSHOP

The Mysteries of the Rosary are meditations on episodes in the life and death of Jesus from the Annunciation to the Ascension and beyond, known as the Joyful (or Joyous) Mysteries, the Sorrowful Mysteries, and the Glorious Mysteries. Each of these Mysteries contemplates five different stages of Christ's life. On Saturday, September 30, 2023, there will be a workshop on the Rosary. The parish community is invited to come and learn more about the rosary. In the coming weeks, we will share more about the rosary and the workshop.

could not believe more firmly in Christ's presence in the Eucharist if I were to behold a miracle." St. Louis, King Louis IX of France

The Real Presence

In his biographies, St. Louis (d. 1270), King Louis IX of France relates that once, during the exposition of the Blessed Sacrament in the chapel in his residence, he was working in his study when a courtier excitedly burst in, exclaiming, "Sire, the Infant Jesus is appearing in the Host upon the altar!" The saint calmly continued his writing, quietly replying, "I could not believe more firmly in Christ's presence in the Eucharist if I were to behold a miracle." A contemporary of St. Louis, St. Anthony of Padua (d. 1231), was involved in a most dramatic miracle of the Eucharist. It involved, of all things, a mule. The history of the saint relates that a man named Boniville, believed to have been an Albigensian heretic who rejected the validity of all the Sacraments, was one day in Toulouse questioning the saint about the Sacrament of the Altar. Boniville denied the real presence of Christ in the consecrated Host, while the saint steadfastly affirmed it. As a test, one or the other suggested that the choice be made by Boniville's mule. Both agreed. The mule was kept in his stall for three days, deprived of food during all that time. At the end of the fast, a great crowd of believers and unbelievers assembled to witness the proceedings. When the mule was brought before St. Anthony, he held a consecrated Host before the animal, while Boniville attempted to feed it oats and hay. The mule took no notice of the food, but fell to its knees before the Blessed Sacrament. The Catholics who witnessed the miracle expressed unbounded joy, while the unbelievers were thoroughly confused. Boniville is said to have been subsequently converted, together with a great number of heretics. Another miracle involving an animal is not so well known. It occurred in the 16th century in Ireland and involved Sir Richard Shee, an attorney. Sir Richard of Kilkenney was thought to be a great man, but he was an irreligious one. Some even believed that he participated in diabolical ceremonies. While his neighbors dutifully attended Mass on Sundays and holy days, Sir Richard chose the very time of the Holy Sacrifice to bring out his hounds for hunting, hoping the barking of his animals would distract those who were attempting to pray. On one occasion, during a procession, a great many people were waiting in the streets for the Blessed Sacrament to be carried through their village. The lawyer rode toward the gathering with his hounds and contemptuously attempted to spur his horse through the worshippers, but the animal refused to proceed. It knelt down with the people and could not be compelled to rise until the Blessed Sacrament had passed. The man was so awestricken that he reformed his life and built a large Cross to mark the place of his repentance.
