DEACON'S CORNER

I'll be spending this weekend as a member of the team for a Cursillo men's weekend. Some people describe Cursillo as a retreat, but it's not really a retreat, it's more a shared experience of growing as Christian brothers (or sisters in the case of a women's weekend). There will be over 50 of us from all walks of life coming together to share how Jesus is working in our lives.

Our culture has pushed us to advocate for separation of church and state, which I think is a good thing when it comes to governance. By doing this, it seems that we think discussing our Christian experience in a public forum is forbidden, leading us to "just keep it to ourselves." This has a tendency to separate us. During a weekend experience like Cursillo we find that being part of a larger Christian community enhances our daily lives.

If you wouldn't mind, please pray for me and the men who are living our Cursillo this weekend, we appreciated it. Now is as good a time as any. Our Father...

Blessings,

Deacon Todd
