The Sixteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Growing as Disciples of Jesus, Making Disciples For Jesus

16th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Jeremiah 23:1-6, Ephesians 2:13-18, Mk 6: 30-34

Summary of the Readings: In the first reading, the prophet Jeremiah (sixth century B.C.), thunders against Israel's careless leaders - the king, some priests and some court prophets - because they have shown no concern for the poor.
The prophet also foretells the rise of a good, new shepherd in the family line of David. Then he consoles the Israelites enslaved in Babylon, by assuring them that God will lead them back to their original pasture in Israel.

The second reading introduces Jesus as the shepherd of both the Jews and the Gentiles and explains how Jesus, the good shepherd, reconciled all of us with His Father by offering himself on the cross. Paul also speaks about another reconciliation between the Jews and the Gentiles, brought about by Jesus who has accepted both into the same Christian brotherhood.

The reading from the Gospel of Mark presents Jesus as the good shepherd fulfilling God's promise given through his prophet Jeremiah in the first reading. Here we see Jesus attending to his weary apostles, who have just returned from their first preaching mission, while at the same time expressing his concern for the people who, like "sheep without a shepherd," have gathered to meet him in the wilderness. From our reflection on today's Gospel, let us remind ourselves that the Christian life consists of meeting with God in the secret place so that we may serve people more effectively in the market place.

MARRIAGE MINUTE— Do you ever feel exhausted? The frantic pace of modern life can leave us exhausted, and yet we often dismiss the idea of getting away with our spouse as frivolous. In this weekend's readings, Jesus meets with his apostles after some hard work. Jesus commands, "Come away by yourselves and rest a while." If it were selfish, Jesus wouldn't command it! As married people, our spouse is a great channel of God's grace and rest for us. Why not take time away to relax, and to be refreshed by the love between you and your spouse? Consider getting away for a: • Weekend: Living in Love (Aug 4-5 or Sept 29-30) or Worldwide Marriage Encounter • Date Night: School of Love, or Every Day in Love • Daily online email meditations (Amoris Laetitia 30 day email retreat) Find all these options at joyfulmarriageproject.com

Reflecting On Sunday's Readings

Spiritual burn-out is a common problem among church workers, both professionals and volunteers. Because the needs of people are great and workers are few, gifted individuals step forward to meet these needs, sometimes taking on more than is humanly possible. Often excessive energy is expended through prolonged periods of service, then suddenly a vital laborer who is discouraged, will resign and withdraw from church life and activities, leaving everyone wondering what happened. Though several patterns may emerge, such as interpersonal conflict and feelings of being unappreciated, often the real problem is due to the violation of a basic principle: "If your output, exceeds your intake, then your upkeep, becomes your downfall." They simply have burned-out, or expended all their existing spiritual and emotional reserves. They had nothing left to give. In this week's Gospel Jesus seems aware of the principle, that when people have been heavily concentrating on ministry they need to renew and refresh their spiritual and emotional resources. This is true in any situation that draws heavily on one's spiritual and emotional reserves. The disciples, had just been sent out two-by-two into a stressful witnessing situation to share the Good News throughout the region. Probably they returned weary, only to find Jesus' ministry situation to be even more demanding. Consequently, Jesus invited them to temporarily come apart with him from the ministry demands of people, to rest and renew their energies. Later, when the enthusiastic crowds interrupted the start of this retreat, the disciples' spiritual and emotional reserves were tested. Jesus undoubtedly was equally as tired as the disciples, yet we see him caring for both their needs and the needs of the crowd. He is the promised Good Shepherd, caring for their needs wisely, so that they can dwell securely. As this week's second reading indicates, "He is our peace," and only as we are in close harmony with him will we be able to experience the peace he offers. It is essential for life and ministry that we avail ourselves of the necessary opportunities to refill our spiritual reservoir with his presence and the peace he offers. Obviously, the first place to do this is by regular and meaningful participation in Mass and Eucharist. However, with our hectic, fast-paced lifestyles we should also avail ourselves of time to read sacred Scripture and pray daily. In addition, we have the privilege, through personal or directed retreats to also withdraw into a lonely place to rest and renew our soul for an extended period of time. Stressful living is not work-free living. Jesus said that his "yoke is easy" and his "burden is light." Perhaps, in life and ministry, when we find that the opposite is true we should see our stress as a sign, or a red flag so to speak, that our reservoir is nearly empty, and that it is time to concentrate on being refilled by the Holy Spirit. "Without solitude it is virtually impossible to live a spiritual life. Solitude begins with a time and place for God, and Him alone. If we really believe not only that God exists but also that he is actively present in our lives—healing, teaching, and guiding—we need to set aside a time and space to give him our undivided attention. Jesus says, 'Go to your private room and, when you have shut the door, pray to your Father who is in that secret place' (Matthew 6:6). "... But we do not take the spiritual life seriously if we do not set aside some time to be with God and listen to Him."* Let's make this concept of coming apart from the busyness of life to a daily retreat with Jesus a reality
