The Ascension of the Lord

Growing as Disciples of Jesus, Making Disciples for Jesus

THE ASCENSION OF OUR LORD

In the Christian tradition, reflected in the major Christian creeds and confessional statements, the ascension is connected with the exaltation of Jesus, meaning that through his ascension, Jesus took his seat at the right hand of God: "He ascended into heaven, and is seated at the right hand of God the Father Almighty ... His glorious Ascension signified the completion of his time on earth, which is celebrated by the Church forty days after the Resurrection and ten days before the Pentecost, the coming of the Holy Spirit. Our Lord Jesus Christ gave us hope by promising that "when I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also" (John 14:3).

The biblical narrative in Chapter 1 of the Acts of the Apostles takes place 40 days after the resurrection: Jesus is taken up from the disciples in their sight, a cloud hides him from view, and two men in white appear to tell them that he will return "in the same way you have seen him go into heaven."

Matthew has two post-Resurrection appearances, the first to Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary" at the tomb, and the second, based on Mark 16:7, to all the disciples on a mountain in Galilee, where Jesus claims authority over heaven and earth and commissions the disciples to preach the gospel to the whole world. Christianity similarly uses forty to designate important time periods. Before his temptation, Jesus fasted "forty days and forty nights" in the Judean desert (Matthew 4:2, Mark 1:13, Luke 4:2). Forty days was the period from the resurrection of Jesus to the ascension of Jesus (Acts 1:3). The ascended Christ is supremely powerful. As the ascended king, he is sovereign over every part of the created order. He controls all things for the church, and therefore you can face the world with peace in your heart . . . he's at the right hand of God as the executive director of history, directing everything for the benefit of the church. If you belong to him, then everything that happens ultimately happens for you.

As the great creed has reminded Christians across the ages, "He ascended into heaven and sits at the right hand of God, the Father almighty, from there he will come to judge the living and the dead." Jesus went up and back into heaven, but will one day return as our conquering king.

BEGINNING EXPERIENCE ~ A

Weekend Away for a Lifetime of Change. Serving the Widowed, Separated and Divorced; who are suffering the loss of a love relationship and may feel left out by their church, uneasy around married friends, unsure of themselves and uncertain about their futures. Helps grieving persons focus on their experience, deal with the natural grief process and offers an opportunity to turn the pain of loss into an experience of positive growth emerging from the darkness of grief into the light of a new beginning. The next Beginning Experience Weekend is June 28-30, at Precious Blood, Liberty MO. For more information visit: www.beginningexperiencekc.org, email: register.bekc@gmail.com, or contact Michelle, 913-709-3779.

MARRIAGE MINUTE What does the future hold? We ask this question a great deal. Will it bring fortune? Will it bring suffering? In many ways, we can lose our focus on what matters by worrying about the future. Jesus recognizes this temptation in his disciples as he ascends into heaven. Focus on the coming of the Holy Spirit, and everything else will take care of itself. Whether things are going great or we are experiencing struggles in marriage, we can apply the same advice. Try the following:

- First, ask the Holy Spirit to be more present in your life and marriage.
- Ignore distractions like cell phones and television, and spend intentional time with your spouse.
- Share daily with your spouse one experience of God from that day. Prayer is the key to fuel this awareness. Explore “Foundation” at www.JoyfulMarriageProject.com

Reflecting On Sunday's Readings

“Can’t we just live together in peace?” is the plaintive cry of a world racked with division. In their futile attempts to secure self-made peace the world exalts and promotes diversity as the key to harmony; let every person do that which is right in their own eyes. However, this freedom is often not sought for, nor granted to Christians, especially Catholic Christians. The motivation behind the exaltation of diversity is ultimately peace through uninterrupted self-gratification and freedom from constraints. Unfortunately, when the world exalts diversity to the point of extending the definition to include perversity, and without submitting to the Creator, disunity and division result rather than peace. Jesus shows us a better way in this week’s Gospel Reading. Early in history Christianity demonstrated that diverse people can live together in peace. From the very first Christianity included male and female, Jew and Gentile, slave and free, and people from various nationalities and ethnic groups. This diverse group was tied together by the Spirit of Christ, not by some superficial “I’m okay, you’re okay” philosophical connection. This unity was first demonstrated by the perfect unity which existed between the Father and the Son. Theirs was a unity of love which manifested itself in harmony of purpose and mutual concern for the other’s glory. Jesus suggests in his great priestly prayer (John 17), just prior to his passion, that this unity is desired and available for all who follow him. It is important though to realize that Jesus was not interested in unity simply for the sake of unity but for God’s glory. The unity of which Jesus speaks hinges on the presence of a glory that is greater than our personal human charisma, and on a purpose that takes us beyond our personal desires. That glory is in fact the indwelling presence of God. This presence not only enables us to be something that we are not, but also enables us to see others through the eyes of Christ who dwells within us.

People, ourselves included, no longer simply remain flawed human persons, but rather are the very dwelling place of God, “I in them, thou in me.” Consequently, we can, or should, no longer relate to one another on a purely human level but should love and honor one another as we love and honor Christ. In addition, the unity Jesus speaks of is centered around a purpose that is higher than ourselves; the glory of God and the communication of the Gospel of Peace to a divided world. For diverse people to lay aside their selfish ambitions, which are in fact the things which divide us, there must be a purpose and calling that is esteemed more highly by them than are their personal preferences. Twice in Jesus’ prayer he identifies the purpose around which diverse people can and should unite— “So that the world may believe that thou hast sent me.” It is only when people unite around Christ and his eternal purposes that unity among diverse people is possible. That unity which Jesus said is the key to the propagation of the Gospel to the world, hinges on the visible presence of unity among his followers. Diverse people united in love and purpose, and living together in harmony is such a rarity in this world that its very presence is a wakeup call for those without peace, and a visual aid to the reality of Christ. Is it any wonder that the progress of salvation is so slow in our world today? What should be our response? “As evangelizers, we must offer Christ’s faithful not the image of people divided and separated by unedifying quarrels, but the image of people who are mature in faith and capable of finding a meeting-point beyond the real tensions, thanks to a shared, sincere and disinterested search for truth. Yes, the destiny of evangelization is certainly bound up with the witness of unity given by the Church. This is a source of responsibility and also comfort.” (Evangelii Nuntiandi, by Pope Paul VI, paragraph 77.)
