The Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Growing as Disciples of Jesus, Making Disciples for Jesus

St. Bonaventure, Bishop and Doctor of the Church July 15th

After Bonaventure's death, someone wrote, "At the funeral there was much sorrow and tears; for the Lord had given him this grace, that all who saw him were filled with an immense love for him."

Bonaventure was born in Italy, not far from Naples. He was baptized John. The story is told that when he was about four years old, he was deathly sick. His mother begged Francis of Assisi to come and cure her child. Francis simply touched the little boy, and he was cured instantly. As an adult, Bonaventure entered the Franciscan order. He went to Paris where he became a good friend of the great St. Thomas Aquinas. They both studied at the famous University of Paris. Eventually Bonaventure became a professor of theology there.

After some years, Bonaventure became the Father General, the person in charge of the Franciscan order. He held this position for seventeen years. He became a bishop against his wish and then was appointed a cardinal shortly before his death. He died at the Second Council of Lyons, which he had helped prepare.

Bonaventure wrote

many books about theology as well as a biography of St. Francis of Assisi. He wanted to teach everyone how to live closely with God. His spiritual life centered on Jesus, especially his passion and death.

In 1588 St. Bonaventure was proclaimed "Seraphic Doctor." When Thomas Aquinas asked Bonaventure where he got his knowledge, Bonaventure pointed to the crucifix and said, "I study only the crucified one, Jesus Christ."

Marriage Minute-

The Good Samaritan in Marriage Jesus sums up all the Law and Prophets with the story of the Good Samaritan. His meaning is clear: we are to treat one another with mercy beginning with our spouses! Here are some practical ways we can show mercy to our spouse this week:

- Bandage their wounds by forgiving and helping them forgive others
- Be moved with compassion by their struggles by listening to them and seeking to understand
- Lift them up with affirmation and encouragement
- Care for them by meeting spiritual, social, emotional and physical needs Every time this week that you make a meal, mow a lawn, take time to listen, or speak a kind word, you are living the mercy that fulfills the Law. To fortify your Sacrament of Matrimony, attend the next Living in Love retreat Aug 10-11. www.archkck.org/livinginlove

Reflecting On Sunday's Readings

Some years ago, I read a book that discussed the deterioration of the legal system in western society. It rightly pointed out that the majority of people in the legal profession have become more concerned with what is legal rather than with what is just. By way of support it pointed out how often criminals who are knowingly guilty of horrendous crimes are being set free from prosecution due to legal technicalities. Are they legally being set free? Certainly. Is it just and right that someone who is knowingly guilty does not have to account for their crime? Certainly not! The lawyer who confronted Jesus in this week's Gospel Reading, in a similar way, was not concerned about what was just and right, but about what was legal. His question had to do with what was the legal minimum requirement necessary to get into heaven. There is a difference between what is legal and what is just and Jesus did not get trapped into playing the "legality" game. His answer provided the Scripture's legal minimum, however the Scripture's legal minimum is a broad, all encompassing, statement of heavenly justice; "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself." This answer points out that the legal minimum is total surrender to loving God and loving people. So in an attempt to avoid the uncomfortable position of examining the wholeheartedness of his love, the lawyer endeavors to change the subject by asking Jesus to clarify the legality of, "Who is my neighbor?" Jesus' parable about the Good Samaritan once again points out the difference between a legal definition of "my neighbor" and a just definition. Each of the participants who passed by the injured man undoubtedly could have given a legal excuse as to why they couldn't stop and render aid, but they couldn't justify their indifference. Your love for God cannot end at the steps of your neighbor, and your love for your neighbors cannot end with the exclusion of strangers. The love of God, of which Jesus speaks, encompasses all of our heart, soul, mind and strength, and when present will overflow and touch all whom we encounter. Neither the lawyer, nor we, can meet the legal demands necessary to "inherit eternal life." It is beyond our capacity. So the Father provides a Sacrificial Lamb, the Lord Jesus, not primarily to meet only the legal requirement of our redemption, but rather to make "just" the nature of our heart, soul, mind, and strength. Only when he redeems us, and brings about that inner change, can we love God with all our being. Only then will his love in us flow over into unselfish love for our neighbor. When our thinking shifts from concern about what is necessary as good Catholics to escape perdition and attain heaven, to what is possible for good Catholics to express our love through Christ, only then will we see our love for God growing and overflowing from our life to others. "Neither of these two kinds of love is expressed with full maturity without the other, because God cannot be loved apart from our neighbor, nor our neighbor apart from God. Hence as many times as Peter was asked by our Lord if he loved him, and as he attested of his love the Lord added at the end of each response, 'Feed my sheep,' or 'feed my lambs,' as if he were clearly saying: 'There is only one adequate confirmation of wholehearted love of God—laboring steadily for the needy in your midst, exercising continuing care of them.'" (Bede, from Ancient Christian Commentary on Scripture, Vol II, Mark, page 165.)

Thank you:

On behalf of our church family, I want to express our appreciation for your help in coordinating refreshments for the Lew Whitson memorial service. It was big effort to serve that many people, and thanks to your church we were able to have plenty of food for everyone. Having the meal was a way to encourage people to stay and visit afterwards. It met a need. I know the Whitson family is thankful for all the love and support. Thanks for your part. Blessings to you! In Christ, Joel Barber.
