POPE FRANCIS ON EUCHARIST

People's hearts and the entire church must be wide open to wonder and devotion to Christ and ready to embrace everyone — sinner and saint alike, Pope Francis said during his homily on the Feast of the Body and Blood of Christ. "The church of the perfect and pure is a place where there isn't much room for anyone; but the church with open doors that celebrates around Christ is, on the other hand, a large hall where everyone — the righteous and sinners — can enter." "The Eucharist is meant to nourish those who are tired and hungry along the journey, let's not forget this!" It was the second year the Mass was held with a reduced congregation and without the traditional outdoor Corpus Christi procession afterward as part of the ongoing efforts to contain the spread of the coronavirus. The ceremony instead concluded with a long moment of silent eucharistic adoration and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

In his homily, Francis looked at the meaning of the images presented in the reading from the Gospel of St. Mark which detailed Jesus' instructions for preparing and finding a place for Passover and the Lord's Supper. He said the image of a man carrying a jar of water reminds people that humanity is thirsty, "always seeking a source of water that satisfies and restores." "All of us journey through life with a jar in our hands" as "each one of us is thirsty for love, joy, a successful life in a more humane world," he said, adding that only God can satisfy that real thirst for something more — that hope in an eternal life that sustains people in life. Because that thirst is often not acknowledged, with fewer people seeking or asking about God, Christians must evangelize, the pope said.

It is not enough for the church to be a small group "of the usual people who gather to celebrate the Eucharist. We have to go into the city, encounter people, learn to recognize and reawaken the thirst for God and yearning for the Gospel," he said. It will be that renewed thirst that brings people to the altar to encounter God in the Eucharist, he added. The other important image is the grand upper room they find for the Passover meal, he said, a meal that will be significant because of a tiny morsel of bread. "God makes himself small like a piece of bread," so humble, hidden and sometimes invisible, that it is necessary that one's heart be large, open and vigilant to recognize, welcome and adore him, the pope said. "Instead, if our heart is less like a large room and more like storage closet where we regretfully keep old things, like an attic where we have long stored away our enthusiasm and dreams, like a cramped and dark room where we live alone, with ourselves, our problems and bitterness," he said, "then it will be impossible to recognize this silent and humble presence of God." The church also must be a large, welcoming space, "not a small exclusive club, but a community with its arms wide open, welcoming to everyone," and willing to lead to Christ the wounded, the wayward and those who have done wrong, he said. "To celebrate and live the Eucharist," he said, "we, too, are called to live this love, because you cannot break Sunday's bread if your heart is closed to others, you cannot eat this bread if you do not give the bread to the hungry, you cannot share this bread if you do not share the sufferings of those in need."

The Eucharist, he said, shows "the strength to love those who make mistakes" because Jesus gave the world the bread of life on the night he was betrayed. Jesus reacts to the evil of Judas' betrayal with a greater good, responding to Judas' "no" with the "yes" of mercy, he said. "He does not punish the sinner, but rather gives his life for him, he prays for him." "When we receive the Eucharist, Jesus does the same with us: he knows us; he knows we are sinners; he knows we make many mistakes, but he does not give up on joining his life to ours," the pope said. "He knows that we need it, because the Eucharist is not the reward of saints, but the bread of sinners. This is why he exhorts us: 'Do not be afraid! Take and eat.'"

STEUBENVILLE RETREAT CANCELLED

Our Coordinators for Youth Ministry made every effort to pull this retreat together not only for our own young people but those from area parishes as well. As the deadline approached there were less than a dozen teens who expressed an interest. Fr. Jack made appeals from the altar and through emails and telephone calls to parents, but to no avail. This could have been an opportunity bring our youth together and make a fresh start after the long Covid spiritual drought. Thanks to Lynn Yingling and Mike Jaques for all the efforts they made to make this work. Refunds to those who had already signed up are moving forward promptly.

WE ARE CLOSING THE GAP

Thanks so much to our good and faithful stewards who are coming through to close the gap between the last two fiscal years. With a little more than a month remaining in our fiscal year which began on July 1, 2020 and ends on June 30, 2021 we can still reach our goal. Now that the Archbishop has reinstated the Sunday Mass obligation, our attendance and contributions should continue to increase. We also received a request from the Archdiocese this past week to remind us that we are more than 25% below our ACA goal. We have contributed $54K and our goal is more than $70K. If you have the means to do so, closing this gap would also be greatly appreciated.

Congratulations!

Our Deepest Sympathy To Father Gabriel on the death of his paternal grandmother. May she rest in peace.

Sincere Condolences

Charlie Cusack

We extend our deepest sympathy to all the members of the Cusack families on the occasion of Charlie's passing. He was the oldest of the eleven children of Hank & Ella Mae Cusack and the beloved husband of Pam and their four daughters. He had been battling a series of illnesses over the past few years and finally gave up his spirit on June 6th.

*May His Soul and All the Souls
Of The Faithful Departed
Through the Mercy of God,
Rest in Peace.*

We will have baskets for cards in the commons next week for Fr. Jack & Fr. Gabriel
