ST. PHOEBE

Brother Mickey McGrath released a new image depicting St. Phoebe. He shares, "I was delighted to receive this commission to create an image of St. Phoebe, a woman I knew very little about other than the fact that she is the Patron Saint of Women Deacons. When I learned that Phoebe is depicted in traditional iconography as holding a scroll - and that she did not wear a stole as we see being worn by deacons today - it led me to imagine her with an open scroll with the words from St. Paul's letter to the Romans written on it: "Receive her in the Lord." I felt it important to depict St. Phoebe as a strong and determined woman with the wisdom of years symbolized by her grey-streaked hair. I chose the colors she is wearing for their gentle strength and for their subtle suggestions of the liturgical seasons of Advent and Lent - times of contemplative hope and welcoming the new."

SUMMER GARDEN PREP

June 3rd from 8 - 11 am

All ages are welcome!

We are hosting a mulch party! Bring wheelbarrows, shovels, pitchforks, and small buckets. Wear garden gloves, sun protection, and bring water to drink.

SILVER ROSE CEREMONY

On May 5, a Silver Rose ceremony was held in the Chapel at Holy Infant. Knights and other parishioners gathered to pray the rosary and offer prayers and petitions to Our Lady. In particular, we prayed for all Life, especially the life of the unborn, and for the elderly and people subject to violence.

This is the second year that Holy Infant has hosted a Silver Rose Ceremony. Before traveling to our parish, this Silver Rose was at Holy Infant parish in Reidsville and it traveled to St. Luke's in Raleigh after it left our parish. Our own parishioner, Tim Hall, is the NC chairman for these events.

FINDING GOD IN THE BARBERSHOP

A few weeks ago, I found out my barber was closing his business and retiring. Brothers Joe and John Innamorato, who were born in Carife, a town in Southern Italy, opened their shop in January 1980. This classic barbershop was located on a busy avenue in the Rhawnhurst section of Northeast Philadelphia. John was a graduate of Father Judge High School and has cut the hair of many Oblate priests, brothers, and seminarians for over forty years. When he was in high school, he would go to the faculty residences of North Catholic and Father Judge and cut the Oblates' hair right on the premises. The walls of the shop were decorated with personal items and souvenirs collected over the years. Other memorabilia included statues, pictures of saints, and memorial cards of Oblates who had died.

John Innamorato and Joe Innamorato of Hair Perfection.

What I liked about John and Joe was that they gave every customer what he needed. It wasn't just about giving someone a trim or a shave, but the experience in their shop gave everyone a few minutes of peace. Some customers wanted to talk the whole time they were in the chair and others wanted to rest and catch some quiet. Some looked around at the pictures and postcards and others closed their eyes. The barbershop provided a place of balance and rest from the busy pace of our world.

The brothers closed their shop just a few weeks after they celebrated their 43rd anniversary as a business. It was right before we began the Lenten season and entered the spiritual desert where we encounter God. In many ways, the barbershop experience is like time in the Lenten desert. A visit to the barber can be an opportunity for rest and reflection, a place for quiet and community. Like Lent, a trip to the barbershop is a chance to look into the mirror and work on ourselves. We see ourselves and ask, "What do I need to change, where do I need improvement?" Our haircut reminds us that some things need to be taken away for us to be refreshed and renewed. In some ways, our time at the barbershop is like a mini-retreat.

The barbershop I have been writing about and visiting for 17 years was called "Hair Perfection." The name of the barbershop reminds me of a past reflection I wrote on perfection. We are always on the road to perfection, always working to be our best selves. I hope that during our journey, God will continue to lead us to perfection one step at a time.
