MESSAGE FROM OUR PASTOR

Dear Parish Family,

You can't beat God when it comes to humility! When Jesus teaches, "The greatest among you must be your servant" we must ask the follow-up question: "Who, then, is greater than God?" If God is greatest, then He is calling Himself our servant. Can you hear Christ's compassion and gentleness to you? He wants to serve you, to lift you up, and call you to be humble just like Him. God humbles Himself to be with each and every human person no matter how small or seemingly insignificant. We must remember to be humble like Jesus so we can safeguard the humanity of every person if we are to live well as God intends in our "throwaway culture."

Remember to vote this Tuesday, November 7. As you are well aware, there is a lot at stake in this upcoming election. We have a moral duty not only to show up to vote, but moreover to vote NO on Issue 1 which would enshrine extreme abortion laws into our State Constitution, eliminate parental notification rights, and take away health and safety standards in place to protect women. We have our fourth and final article by Fr. Jerry Bednar in today's bulletin as well. I hope these articles have been helpful and that you've had a chance to talk about and share them with your family and friends. Let us pray for the intercession of our Blessed Mother upon all of our nation and our families, for all women and mothers, and especially for all women who have suffered through the trauma of abortion.

New Rectory Town Hall Meetings

You are invited to a special presentation to learn more about the proposal to build a new rectory on our parish grounds. Come to a Town Hall meeting in the Banquet Room on either Friday, November 10 at 4:00 p.m., or Tuesday, November 14 at 7:00 p.m. The presentation will last about a half hour with time for parishioners from St. Mary and St. Patrick Parishes to provide input and ask questions. I kindly ask for your participation in this process as we develop our plans. Please RSVP to the parish office ahead of time if you're able so we know how many tables and chairs to set up.

I am yours in Christ,
Father Scott Goodfellow

PARENTS MATTER: PART 4The Ohio Amendment and Administrative Rapture

Those who support the Ohio Reproductive Rights amendment on the November ballot unwittingly display what Dostoevsky called an “administrative rapture” fueled by sentimentality. In his 1872 novel, Demons, a character calls attention to Russia’s “administrative rapture” which thrills any bureaucrat to think, “Come, I’ll show my power over you.” Later, that character’s son observes that sentimentality drives that administrative rapture.

Both tendencies play their role in the proposed Ohio amendment. First, the State knows best and stands ready to show its power over “individuals,” and, second, the amendment’s provisions are based on a sentimental and paternalistic view of “individuals.” Previously, we considered how unrealistically the amendment treats children as miniature adults. The amendment also treats women in a sentimental and paternalistic way.

To illustrate the amendment’s sentimental and paternalistic concept of women, consider how the amendment would handle this case: What if a pregnant woman discovers that she has cancer? Assume her doctors recommend chemotherapy to get rid of the cancer, but they tell her it will surely kill the fetus. Let’s say that she makes the decision to forego cancer treatments until after she gives birth. The doctors indicate that there’s a 90% chance that she will not survive if she postpones chemotherapy. But she’s determined. She wants to give her child a chance.

In a fit of administrative rapture, the State, under the terms of the amendment, can intervene and force the woman to take chemotherapy because it can demonstrate that “. . . it is the least restrictive means to advance the individual’s health in accordance with widely accepted and evidence-based standards of care.”

Shouldn’t that decision be left to the mother? Yet the State could overrule her. What sort of sentimental conception of a woman governs such a decision? In the State’s view, the woman simply does not know what is best for her. The State has pre-determined that only “the individual’s health” need be considered, whereas the mother may choose to include her child’s welfare too. The mother’s thought process may well include her pre-born baby, and give rise to a more complex, a more subtle, a more loving decision than the State. Yet the State could overrule her.

Exactly what State entity would perform this task remains unclear. Who would initiate the process? How? The proposed amendment specifies that “State” means “any governmental entity and political subdivision.” Once again, the drafters have thoughtlessly thrown the net over as wide a territory as possible. Literally, “any governmental entity” would include federal as well as local administrative offices (and their bureaucrats) regardless of their competence to make healthcare decisions. The reference to “any political subdivision” suggests that any official will do, whether it be a township trustee, a police chief, or a zoning board member. They all represent governmental entities, and would qualify to act under the proposed amendment. To address this issue, it is conceivable that the State might create a governmental entity to demonstrate when it can overrule an individual’s decision, say, a “Reproductive Health Review Board.” It may also create the means by which it discovers when individuals are making choices that are unfavored, perhaps by a mandatory reporting system for doctors.

Some people fear that Ohio’s present law does not cover enough legitimate abortions. But the present law does allow abortions to save the life of the mother. For example, if that pregnant woman contracts cancer, and needs chemotherapy to save her life, present law in Ohio allows her to have chemotherapy—even though it will certainly kill her baby. The Church also allows the operation under the law of “double-effect.” It’s her choice. Technically, the Church does not consider the administration of chemotherapy in these circumstances as abortion, although some others might define it as such.

If citizens think that further exceptions are needed, they still should vote against the amendment because the proposal opens the door to ALL abortions and ALL gender surgeries for ANY individual – whose decision may be overridden by the State. Narrow cases call for small adjustments to statutes, not wide-ranging, poorly drafted Constitutional amendments.

Dostoevsky wrote prophetically of his homeland Russia. Little did he know that he wrote prophetically of Ohio as well. It is time to awaken from the administrative rapture into which our State is falling. Vote “No” on the amendment in November, and help preserve a realistic concept of children, women and men.

ST. MARY SHARING TREE – 2023

Thank you to all who donated to our 2022 Sharing Tree. Our generous parish provided 533 Christmas Gifts, as well as numerous gifts of money to the Nicaragua Mission. This year, we are hoping our parish will meet the unique challenges that we see around us.

There are more people in need due to many factors – job loss, government budget reductions, and family illnesses.

The Knights of Columbus are again sponsoring the Sharing Tree. In case you did not know, this event provides local groups and agencies the means to request gifts for people who have a specific gift request for themselves or a family member. The gifts go to members of our parish and local community: Womensafe, Birthright Geauga, Project Hope, The Geauga Senior Center, and Geauga County Job and Family Services.

Members of our parish can now obtain gift request forms at the Parish Office. These request forms must be received back into the office no later than Friday, November 10th. Parish families can pick up their gifts on Monday, December 11th in the Gathering space between 2:00 and 6:00 p.m.

This year we will be setting up the tree with gift request “ornaments” on November 18th to allow a longer period of time for these requests to be seen and accepted by all of us. The key dates are as follows:

- November 18th-November 26th Gift “ornament” requests available in the parish Gathering Space. Please sign your name on the sheets on the table next to the corresponding gift number.
- December 3rd – Gifts must be returned WITH the ornament by noon prior to Mass.
