DEAR PARISHIONERS,

Wild Grapes and Wicked Tenants seemed to be the catch phrases that come from the readings this weekend. With those phrases is the mysterious question that confronts us, "Why do bad things come from that which is initially good?"

Let us consider that first reading from the prophet Isaiah when there is made mention of a wonderful vineyard planted on a fertile hill with the choicest vines. Everything imagined possible to make it yield the finest grapes was done for it. Yet, only wild grapes came forth from it. As the reading continues, in utter disappointment over its lack of productivity the landowner (the Lord) let it come to ruin.

In the gospel, Jesus uses the parable of a landowner who developed a beautiful vineyard and leased it out to tenants whose hearts were consumed with wickedness as they seized, stoned and killed the servants and, ultimately, the son of the landowner. Wild grapes and wicked tenants in a vineyard that was created as so good, designed to be so perfect and destined to produce the finest grapes. What happened? Why do things so bad come from that which is so good?

These are the questions that Isaiah wanted to pose to his people, the house of Israel. These are the questions posed by Jesus to the chief priests and elders of the people. These are the questions posed by the gospel writer Matthew to his community, the early church. These are the questions posed by me to you today. This is an opportunity for us to look into our human hearts and see some of the things that create wild grapes and wicked tenants.

Reflecting upon the first reading, we are the vineyard. God has been so generous and loving in confiding the finest gifts to us. These are to be protected, nourished and cared for, so that we can return the abundant harvest to God. We are the vineyard! We can rejoice in our gifts, but we must also remember that the gifts are bestowed on loan and God expects good fruit from his vineyard. The responsibility is very serious.

God has left nothing unimagined and undone in creating us - the vineyard - and showering us with gifts - gifts of life, insight and inspiration; gifts of hope and ambition; gifts of loving others and being loved; gifts of sharing life and participating in the life of others; gifts of prayer and contemplative silence; gifts of strength and conviction to preserve goodness in others.

The prophet Isaiah portrays God thoroughly disappointed: "He looked for the crop of grapes, but what it yielded was wild grapes." Wild grapes multiply when the vineyard is not properly tended. God is disappointed in us when we lazily sit back and allow weeds to grow. In other words, God expects us to recognize the dignity of our gifts, the beauty of our lives, the joy of our families and neighbors. The lazy, indifferent person is properly condemned.

If we read the gospel at this point, we realize that Scripture is not so much denouncing our mistakes, our excesses, our misdirected energy. It seems more that God can deal with these types of sins more sympathetically than the sins of sloth and stupor which let anything happen that happens.

According to the gospel, God sends a series of messengers or emissaries whom we know as prophets. We are given many chances to turn and serve the Lord actively and obediently. The gospel parable states how these messengers were treated, "they beat one, killed another, and stoned a third." God even sends another series, "more than before, but they treated them the same way." At this point the Scripture listens closely to the heartbeat of God who says within that sacred silence; "They will respect my son." "Finally, he sent his son to them." Yet, God was mistaken! They did not respect God's own child, Jesus, the word incarnate. We are, or at least have been at one time or another in our lives, the wicked tenants.

Yes, among us there are some wild grapes and wicked tenants. And, I guess the one thing that we can have faith in is that they grow out of that state and finally reach full maturity. At least, that can be our hope. However, sometimes faith expressed through prayer and the virtue of hope is just not enough. There need to be prophets who call us to conversion of heart, prophets who challenge us in these times of our lives. You can be those prophets. I come here before you and ask that you not only renew your faith and revitalize your efforts in being faithful and fruitful in the Lord, I ask that you offer some of your finest grapes to the altar of God. Recognize the gifts and talents that you possess.

MUSIC

Coordinator of Liturgical Music
Amy Dolan

This October we will put the spotlight on Stewardship in our parish. What does it mean to be a good steward? Being a good steward of our talents means using our God-given abilities to serve others and bring glory to God. This may include using our skills in our careers or hobbies to benefit others or using our talents in the Church to help build up the body of Christ. Maybe you have a love of music and have always wanted to develop your voice through singing with a choir. Maybe you used to play the piano or guitar before you got married and started a family, and now that instrument is collecting dust in your home. Why not dust it off, get back at your practice, and then share those gifts with other music ministers at church. We welcome all musicians from beginner to professional! Come see what music ministry is all about!

Parish Choir rehearses every Thursday evening from 5:00-6:30 pm. Children's Choir rehearses every Monday from 3:30-4:30 pm in church. And we always need more accompanists, cantors and instrumentalists, too (Guitar, flute, violin, woodwinds and brass are welcome too!)

If you are interested in Music Ministry, please contact Amy Dolan at 563-556-7511 or a.dolan@dbqarch.org

A FAMILY PERSPECTIVE

Every family is visited by difficult times which can unite or divide. These hardships, which we would quickly reject, hold the potential to be the unifying "cornerstone" where we drop our pettiness and defenses and pull together, linked by a common bond and love for one another. —Bud Ozar

MARRIAGE ENRICHMENT

"Have no anxiety at all...if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things." (Phil 4:6-8).

What do you feel anxious about today? Sharing it with your spouse can lessen its power. Look for a positive thought to balance your anxiety.

VOCATION VIEWS

Dismiss all anxiety from your minds. Let us present our needs to God in the form of prayer and petitions full of gratitude.

Let us pray for an increase in vocations to priesthood and religious life. (Philippians 4:6-9)

Please pray for all seminarians of the Archdiocese of Dubuque and those in formation for religious life.

Prayer for Vocations

God our Father, we thank you for calling men and women to serve in your Son's Kingdom as priests, deacons, religious, and consecrated persons. Send your Holy Spirit to help us respond generously and courageously to your call. May our community of faith support vocations of sacrificial love in our youth. We ask this through our Lord Jesus Christ, who lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

Continued from page 2. The vineyard has been created as good, to produce good fruit. However, the vineyard will always need prophets to confront, challenge and cultivate us in order that there be no wild grapes or wicked tenants that take over and destroy what the Lord has intended to take place.

Do you have the courage, the conviction, the wherewithal and the will to serve the Lord in His vineyard as a prophet? I invite you to pray about it. I ask that you encourage those around you to give it some serious consideration for the good of the Church - for glory of God - for the good grapes of the harvest.
