"But thanks be to God that, although you were once slaves of sin, you have become obedient from the heart to the pattern of teaching to which you were entrusted." (Romans 6:17)

Here is a little story I ran across that I would like to share with you regarding the notion of our interior struggles with having an obedient heart, "A little girl was bouncing up and down in the back seat of a car. Repeatedly the mother would tell her to sit down and keep still. But she kept on jumping up and down. Finally, the exasperated mother grabbed her by the shoulder; sat her down and buckled her in the seat, saying "You stay there!" The little girl sat for a few moments with a sullen look on her face then folding her arms announced to her mother, "I may be sitting down, but I'm standing up on the inside!"

"I may be sitting down, but I'm standing up on the inside." This is outward conformity masking an inward rebellion. And, our question for reflection today is, "How often is our Christian faith life like this?" To outside observers we may appear to be the models of piety while inside are we secretly guarding our hearts from giving Jesus Christ full reign. Are we silently protesting the demands of the faith? Are we keeping the commands of God solely motivated out of obligation and not because we want to? Are we sitting down on the outside, but inside standing up in rebellion?

Given all the external pressures we encounter on a day to day basis and the countless invitations we receive to stray away from the life of holiness, we struggle with our loyalties to God and with our commitment to Jesus. Outside of ourselves we may know of others who, likewise, are tempted to fall from grace into sin because of a lack of fortitude and obedience of the heart.

The word "obedience" itself comes from ob-audire which means "to hear." It denotes a willingness to hear others and to do their will. "Heart" comes from the root word "Cor" referring to the organ for pumping blood or "Anima" which means the origin of our courage or the seat of our feelings. It is really a reference to the "very core of our being."

For the believer, obedience refers to hearing God and obeying the divine will which may and often does manifest itself in the will of other persons or faith communities. One who is baptized as Christian is baptized into a community and is animated by the Holy Spirit, the Spirit of Jesus. Filled with faith and love, he or she is able to obey, even in suffering.

For Paul, it is impossible to live a human life in total independence in the sense of being subject to no one. In his letter to the Romans he clearly argues that the freedom from the power or force of sin worked by Jesus' death and resurrection does not mean total and complete human independence, but rather acceptance of another master, namely God. That is why the baptized person (a slave of God in Christ) cannot continue to sin (be a slave of the power of sin). Through this passage Paul uses the slave-master model in order to emphasize the fact that one cannot give allegiance to both God and sin.

Our Christian theology sees the human person not as an isolated individual left to his or her own devices (or vices) but is, rather, a member of a community and thus is in relationship with others. Both by nature and through grace, we are made to grow in and through relationships. In the context of the community of believers, a person seeks to understand and to do God's Will. In the words of the Lord's Prayer (the Our Father) we are reminded of the statement "thy kingdom come, thy Will be done on earth as it is in heaven." At times God's Will may lack clarity so then members help one another to discern

MUSIC

Coordinator of Liturgical Music
Amy Dolan

During November we remember all those who have gone before us, and we are reminded in the readings to "stay awake" and "be ready" for the Lord is coming soon and very soon! St. Augustine discovered God's love and mercy later in life, and wrote of this in book X of his Confessions. In the next few weeks, we will sing two new hymns which are based on the writings of St. Augustine: "O Beauty Ever Ancient" by Roc O'Connor and "A Rightful Place" by Steve Angrisano. The chorus of his hymn goes like this: "Let us live our lives so that all might see that our hearts are restless till they rest in Thee. Let us build your kingdom in truth and grace, so that all might know they have a rightful place." The children's choir has been enjoying learning this fun, rhythmic hymn for the last month!

We know that God is with us in Every Age and we praise him as we sing Sarah Hart's Hymn to Christ the King and Christ the Lord. We hope you will join with our music ministers as we praise God with hymns both new (which are highlighted above) and old during these last weeks of Ordinary Time.

Oh late have I loved you, oh late have I turned;
turned from seeking you in creatures, feeling grief and pain within.
O Beauty ever ancient, O Beauty ever new; you, the mirror of my life renewed, let me find my life in you!

Based on a prayer from St. Augustine

Joining the Catholic Church

Are you feeling called to become a member of the Catholic faith? Join us on Monday, Nov 13, from 6:30 - 7:30 pm at the rectory located at 2525 St. Anne Drive in Dubuque for our next gathering. Come get your questions answered and learn what the process to become Catholic would look like.

First Reconciliation Preparation

Those preparing for the Sacrament of Reconciliation on Dec. 5 will have an interview to determine their readiness on Nov. 19-21 in the Church Social Space. A reminder email with your child's specific interview date and time will be sent out this week. Please email Wendy at dbq058FF@dbqarch.org if you have questions.

"The Faithful Departed" Discussion

What is left for the living to do after someone dies? In this session, the video series will talk about the final ways in which those still living on earth care for the body and soul of the dead. It discusses the work that remains for the living to do as we grieve for the deceased and as we turn to the work of preparing for our own death, and the hope in which we live and die as Christians. Join us as we view and discuss the last session of the Eternal Rest series on Nov. 13 at your choice of either 8:15 am or 6:15 pm in the Adult Faith Formation Room at Resurrection School (enter through the door facing Sam's Club).

Confirmation Preparation

Confirmation class starts in January for high schoolers wishing to receive the sacrament. Email Wendy at dbq058FF@dbqarch.org if you still need to get registered.

Continued from page 2. the Spirit's call, to understand its meaning and to see about its accomplishment.

The virtue of obedience is not only a matter of discerning God's Will in its obscurity but also following it in its clarity. Thus, the one with an obedient heart follows the commandments, the beatitudes, and other specific teachings of the scriptures as showing God's will for daily living. Believers also follow the just teachings and regulations of civil and religious authorities as they exercise their rightful role in the Christian community.

If we are obedient to the heart – to the very core of our being in relationship with God and the Christian community – we are then true to our most inward self, to our authentic personality, to our image of God within, to the most wonderful possibilities of our life that God has hoped for us. Then our outward expressions of faith truly reflect the inner disposition of our heart. We are no longer sitting down on the outside and standing up on the inside. We are rather, one with the Lord in all things.

As Romans 14:7-8 says, "None of us lives for oneself, and no one dies for oneself. For if we live, we live for the Lord, and if we die, we die for the Lord; so then, whether we live or die, we are the Lord's."

Fr. Phil Gibbs, Pastor
