I SEND YOU

If we keep in mind the events of Holy Week when Jesus tells his disciples, “as the Father has sent me, so I send you,” it might seem to us that Jesus was sent to suffer and die, and this might not be a fate we are anxious to share. St. Gregory tells us that the risen Christ sends his chosen disciples into the world, not only to the world’s joys, but also to suffer, as Christ himself was sent. As the Son is loved by the Father and yet is sent to suffer, so are those loved by the risen Christ sent into the world to suffer.

UNFATHOMABLE MERCY OF GOD

It’s what made Christmas happen—and Good Friday, and Easter Sunday. It’s the reason we can stand at the grave and not go to pieces. It’s the hope we have of heaven, and the embrace of our Father’s arms. It bestows the enduring peace we crave, and makes of us genuine peace-makers. It’s what we celebrate at every holy Mass. Today on the Feast of Divine Mercy, we’ll gather to praise, honor, and thank our dear Savior—entrusting anew ourselves and our world to His merciful care. Please join us at 3:00 pm in church for the Chaplet of Divine Mercy and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Dear Parish Family,

Happy Easter! As we celebrate this octave day of Easter, we celebrate what has become known in the Church as Divine Mercy Sunday. St. Faustina, who in many ways could be considered a “Missionary of Mercy” wrote, “For there are three ways of performing an act of mercy: the merciful word, by forgiving and comforting; secondly, if you can offer no word, then pray—that too is mercy; and thirdly, deeds of mercy.”

As much as we celebrate the great mercy that God has shown to each of us, Divine Mercy Sunday also invites us to reflect on how we are vessels of that mercy in our world today. As much as we hope for God’s kindness and compassion to be extended to us for our sins, how do we also, do we, extend that kindness and compassion towards others? God’s mercy isn’t just meant to be given, the mercy of God is meant to be shared. May we not just be receivers, may we also be vessels. Do people look at us, as individuals, as a Church, and see vessels of judgment or vessels of mercy?

Many of us pray the Divine Mercy Chaplet and in that Chaplet we pray the words, “For the sake of His sorrowful passion have mercy on us and on the whole world.” On this Divine Mercy Sunday as we pray and reflect upon those words, let us challenge ourselves to reflect not just upon the mercy of God that is shown to us, but also the mercy of God that is shown through us. How can we, through our words and through our deeds, become “Missionaries of Mercy” ourselves?

Have a Blessed Week!

Fr. John
