My dear family in Christ:

This week brings us two commemorations to consider. The first is the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity. During this week, the Catholic Church unites with our Christian brothers and sisters around the world to pray for an ever growing unity among those who profess Jesus as Lord. In one of his final discourses in the Gospel of St. John, Our Lord prayed that all of His followers might be one. Unfortunately, this is not the case. Due to theological and ecclesiastical disputes, the Body of Christ continues to suffer from division and separation. During this week, we are asked to pray that, through common prayer and dialogue, the walls that separate Christians might be brought down. While there are still divisions among Christian denominations around the world, it is comforting to know that we share a common faith—that we are saved through the death and resurrection of Jesus. Pray that Christians might continue to work together to proclaim the Gospel of Jesus to the world.

The second is the annual commemoration of the 1973 Supreme Court decision in Roe v. Wade. It is a time for Catholics to join together in prayer to pray for an ever growing respect for the dignity of the human person from conception to natural death. Though often overshadowed by political rancor, this week will once again witness hundreds of thousands of people—young and old, male and female—from around our country gather in Washington, D.C., for the March for Life. This powerful witness hopes to touch the hearts of all citizens to work toward a greater protection for the gift of life. As Catholics, it is important for us to do our best to support this fundamental right. We do this through our prayer and our own support of those efforts which enhance human dignity. May we never neglect this call to promote, support, and defend life.

As Pope Francis has written and preached:

Unfortunately, what is thrown away is not only food and dispensable objects, but often human beings themselves, who are discarded as 'unnecessary.' For example, it is frightful even to think there are children, victims of abortion, who will never see the light of day; children being used as soldiers, abused and killed in armed conflicts; and children being bought and sold in that terrible form of modern slavery which is human trafficking, which is a crime against humanity.

Msgr. John J. McDermott, VG

NEWS FROM
January 18–24, 2020
FOR THE DIOCESE OF BURLINGTON

2020 March for Life theme: “Life Empowers: Pro-Life is Pro-Woman”

The March for Life, the annual march in Washington to protest legalized abortion in the United States, is tying itself in 2020 to the women’s suffrage movement for the 100th anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the right to vote.

The theme of the march is “Life Empowers: Pro-Life Is Pro-Woman.” Jeanne Mancini, head of the March for Life, remarked how two noted suffragists of their day, Alice Paul and Susan B. Anthony, were themselves staunchly against abortion. A video made to support the upcoming march, to be held Jan. 24, said the women called abortion “the ultimate exploitation of women.”

An unnamed woman speaking in the video said 30 million female babies had been aborted since the twin 1973 Supreme Court rulings in Roe v. Wade and Doe v. Bolton that legalized abortion virtually on demand.

Mancini said speakers lined up for the pre-march gathering include Louisiana State Sen. Katrina Jackson, a pro-life Democrat who authored a bill in 2014 to require abortion doctors to have admitting privileges at nearby hospitals. It was ruled unconstitutional in 2017, but that ruling in June Medical Services v. Gee was reversed by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The U.S. Supreme Court said in October it would take up the case, its first abortion-related case since the death of Antonin Scalia and the retirement of Anthony Kennedy.

Also on the speakers’ list is U.S. Rep. Christopher Smith, R-New Jersey, long a pro-life advocate, who has sponsored the Born-Alive Survivors Protection Act, which would bar the killing of any baby who survives an abortion. Two such survivors will speak as well, according to Mancini.

The 2020 march will be the 47th such march. “We march regardless,” Mancini said during a Dec. 3 news briefing in Washington about the march. In 2016, “we had ‘Blizzard-geddon,’” she added. An even stronger blizzard in 1982 that crippled the Washington region and its transportation network did not deter those hardy but few marchers who had already made it to the nation’s capital.

The 2019 march was “the first one we marched during a government shutdown,” Mancini added. She said she is working with the U.S. Park Service to assure that there would be no complications to conducting the march should the government be shut down again.

The March for Life now bills itself as “the world’s largest human rights demonstration” and “the world’s largest pro-life event.” Mancini, during the news briefing, called it “the single unifying pro-life event” bringing together people from all points on the pro-life spectrum.

Mancini said more legislation on the abortion front is being advanced at the state level, and that the March for Life would be replicated elsewhere, including Virginia, Connecticut and Chicago.

While the march promotes legislation reflecting pro-life interests, it also aims to “change hearts and minds,” Mancini said.

Tom McClusky, president of March for Life Action, which is the sister organization of the March for Life Education and Defense Fund headed by Mancini, also spoke at the briefing. “If Roe v. Wade is overturned or weakened,” he said, “there will be even more action in the states.”
