BISHOP'S APPEAL IN-PEW WEEKEND

During the height of the pandemic, when our churches were closed, the Diocese of Burlington was able to livestream more than 200 faith activities to keep us all connected, including daily and Sunday Mass, daily rosary, Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, bible study, and much more. This was possible because of your gifts to the Bishop's Annual Appeal. This week, we are asking you at Mass to make a gift or pledge this year to help us reach our goal of $112,000.00. As in the past, your generosity helps the Diocese continue to bring the Good News of Jesus Christ to the people of Vermont. Visit www.bishopsappeal.org for more information.

FAREWELL TO MSGR. McDERMOTT

On Sunday, June 27th, from 1:00 – 2:00 PM there will be a reception at St. Anthony to thank Msgr. McDermott for his service to Christ the King-St. Anthony Parish. The reception will be held outside in the green space behind St. Anthony Church (weather permitting). There will be light refreshments and an opportunity to offer best wishes as Msgr. McDermott prepares to move back to the Catholic Center at UVM. No gifts please, just prayers and best wishes.

AWAKEN PARTICIPANTS

Please continue to keep all those participating in the Awaken program in your prayers as we learn and grow together in faith.

Pastor's Notes

My dear family in Christ:

Over the last few weeks, as the days have grown longer and the weather has gotten warmer, I've been watching the perennials that I planted near the Christ the King Rectory just take off. What appeared as a few small, green blades emerging from the brown earth are now lush plants preparing to show their blossoms to the world. The amazing thing about this wondrous display of God's creation is the fact that it happened so gradually. Small blades give way to larger blades, to leaves, to stalks, and now to flower blossoms preparing to burst forth. I've seen the transformation and growth, but it has happened so gradually that I can't really say I've seen the flowers grow while I was watching them. This growth happens according to God's plan for each of the plants I've planted and now enjoy.

It is precisely for this reason that Our Lord used examples from the natural world to describe the Kingdom of Heaven. The gospel passage this weekend reminds us of the mustard seed and the growth of plants, all connected to the mysterious ways our life of faith grows within us if we remain connected to the source of grace: God Himself. Like the mustard seed, we might see our faith as being small, weak, and unimpressive, but if we remain connected to the Lord through a life of prayer and the sacraments, it can flourish in such a way that others may come to rest in faith through our witness. This growth in faith likely will happen in small ways and not in huge, giant leaps. Like the slow, deliberate, and measured growth of the plants and trees around us, or for that matter the growth of a child within a womb, our faith will most likely grow almost imperceptibly as we journey through life. It is often the case that we don't recognize our spiritual growth unless we take a long look at our lives. Day to day we might not perceive a change, but looking month to month, or year to year, we notice that we have become a little more like Christ. While this slow and steady growth may be frustrating at times, because we are used to the instantaneous and immediate response or solution, faith requires more patience and deliberate and willful commitment to communication with the Lord.

So this week, let's take a long look at our lives. Looking back at yesterday, we may not notice much of a change, but looking back a month, a year, or even more, I pray we will notice that we have become more like the One who saves us, Jesus Christ.

Stay well and God bless,

Msgr. John J. McDermott

PUBLIC MASS PROTOCOLS

COVID-19 UPDATE—VACCINES

Parishioners preparing to receive their vaccination for the coronavirus are encouraged to review the statements of the Holy See and the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops regarding the morality of the vaccines which are presently available. Links for these statements can be found at www.vatican.va and www.usccb.org. Our diocesan website also has pertinent information www.vermontcatholic.org. The Pfizer and Moderna vaccines are considered morally licit; other vaccines present greater moral issues. If parishioners have specific questions on the vaccines, please feel free to contact Msgr. McDermott.

NEWS FROM The Inland See

FOR THE DIOCESE OF BURLINGTON

June 12–18, 2021

YOUR GIFT AT WORK

The following stories provide a glimpse of the impact of your gift to the Bishop's Annual Appeal. Any gift, no matter the size, makes a difference.

Vermont Catholic Charities

Vermont Catholic Charities is continuing to serve persons and families in need even during the Covid-19 pandemic. This past year, 972 adults and 477 children benefited from emergency aid — many impacted by Covid.

People like John and Maggie who have five children under the age of 16. They both worked, but Maggie had to give up her job to stay home with the children during Covid-19. John's hours were cut during this time. They were behind on rent and worried about continuing to fall behind. They received assistance with back rent, help navigating the Covid-related benefits and a voucher for winter clothes and boots for the children. Both John and Maggie are back to work, and they are hopeful that they can stay ahead of their bills.

In addition to emergency assistance, Vermont Catholic Charities continues to provide counseling services. "Our counselors are continuing to meet with clients remotely via phone or videoconference call," Pinard said.

Vermont Catholic Charities' eldercare homes in Burlington, Rutland and Derby Line remained in full operation.

New Diocesan Formation programs

Four formation programs — including two that are new offerings — are set to begin in the late summer to ensure the spiritual and pastoral needs of Catholics throughout the Diocese of Burlington are being addressed: new classes for the Diocesan Lay Formation and Deacon Formation programs and new offerings of a Diocesan Leader of Prayer and a Pastoral Associate for Parish Life Training Program.

Burlington Bishop Christopher Coyne "wants to ensure the spiritual and pastoral needs of Catholics throughout the Diocese are being attended too, which is what these programs are designed to inspire and equip men and women to do," explained Deacon Phil Lawson, Executive Director of Pastoral Ministries for the Diocese of Burlington.

Each of the programs is set to begin in August/September.

The programs are part of a larger vision to inspire and equip men and women for greater service in the Church, under the umbrella of the Diocesan Institute for Missionary Discipleship. "Having already seen the faith, growth, joy and zeal manifested in the current students; I am eager to see this grow," Deacon Lawson said. "Ultimately, we will have more and more men and women, filled with the joy of the Gospel and eager to share that passion and their gifts with their parishes as we seek to build vibrant Catholic communities."

St. Joseph the Provider Feed the Hungry Initiative

In this Year of St. Joseph, Burlington Bishop Christopher Coyne has announced a new coordinated effort to increase the Catholic Church's capacity to feed the hungry in Vermont in response to increasing need.

In the Diocese of Burlington, there are 68 parishes, most of which have formed a partnership with their local food shelf or operate their own pantry. "From operating their own food shelf, to partnering with local food shelves to hosting regular food drives, our Catholic community is already actively engaged in feeding the hungry," he said. "I began this initiative to increase our efforts across our Diocese to meet the growing need for food in the community."

The St. Joseph the Provider Feed the Hungry Initiative is largely a communication effort to connect the Catholic community with organizations that feed the hungry and increase capacity.

"All our parishes are involved in multiple social ministries to help the most vulnerable among us. This initiative will harness the goodwill of the Catholic community to increase our capacity to ensure no one goes hungry by partnering with existing organizations and meeting the need," Bishop Coyne said.
