Sixth Sunday of Easter

Acts of the Apostles 15:1-2, 22-29; Revelation 21:10-14, 22-23; John 14:23-29

The gift of the promised Paraclete will be for peace, it will also be for instruction. Sometimes the two go together.

The early Church, as narrated in today's first reading, experienced dissension and controversy. This happened not that long after the gift of the Paraclete promised by Jesus (as in the gospel reading today). The dissension was over the question of how best to accept non-Jewish converts into the fledgling Church. A council was held. Prayers to that Paraclete/Spirit promised by Jesus were offered. Fairly shortly a peaceful resolution of the difficulty was achieved through the enlightenment gained through the Spirit.

There is no doubt the Spirit of Jesus, this Paraclete which he promised, is available to the church at every age. This has proven to be true through the centuries, and continues into our own time. The presence of the Spirit does not mean everybody "mellows out." Controversy can and does rise up, and even rages at times. (Just like in the early days of the church—it's great to know we're not that different from our apostolic ancestors!)

Today in the Church the issues are different—questions of who can be ordained; of the sharing of power and authority, etc.

The risen Jesus we celebrate during this Easter time tells us He will give us the Paraclete to help us at every age, in every concern.

Next week's readings:

Acts of the Apostles 1:1-11; Ephesians 1:17-23; Luke 24:46-53

Alleluia! Thy good word informs my soul how I may climb to heaven. Alleluia!

"Come Summer With Me"

Come summer with me, Lord;
summer deep down in my soul;
restore my faith in summer's time,
in rest, in joy, in play, in you...

Summer in my heart, Lord,
and dwell there
as if time would never end,
as if all time were children's time, eternal time
when school is always out and joy is ever in...

And let others summer in my shade, Lord,
and share whatever summer's peace is mine to give,
whatever summer's light is mine to shed,
whatever summer's warmth is mine to share...

Good God of every season and every day this week,
come summer with me, Lord, and let the child in my heart
spend this summer in your love... Amen.
