CHURCH OF THE NATIVITY

Pastor's Corner

The Sower, the Soil, and the Sacred Role of Parents and Godparents

In the Parable of the Sower, Jesus tells of a farmer who generously scatters seed. The seed is the Word of God and the gift of His grace. Some seed falls on the path, some on rocky ground, some among thorns, and some on rich soil where it bears abundant fruit.

Every Baptism is a living example of this parable.

In Baptism, God plants the seed of divine life within a child. Through the waters of Baptism, the child becomes an adopted son or daughter of God, is freed from original sin, and is incorporated into the Body of Christ. The seed is perfect because it comes from God.

Yet Jesus reminds us that every seed needs fertile soil.

That is why the Church asks parents and godparents to make such solemn promises during the Rite of Baptism. Parents are asked if they understand the responsibility they are undertaking in raising their child in the practice of the faith. Godparents are asked if they are ready to help the parents fulfill that sacred duty.

These promises are not simply ceremonial words. They are a commitment to cultivate the soil in which God's grace can flourish. Children learn the faith by watching the adults who love them. They learn to pray because someone prays with them. They discover the importance of Sunday Mass because their family makes it a priority. They learn forgiveness, generosity, and trust in God because they experience those virtues at home.

Because the role of a godparent is so important, the Church has established certain requirements in Canon Law. According to Canon 874, a godparent must:

Be chosen by the parents (or guardian) or, in their absence, by the pastor or minister, and have the aptitude and intention of fulfilling this role.

Be at least sixteen years of age, unless the diocesan bishop has established another age or the pastor grants an exception for a just cause.

Be a Catholic who has received Baptism, Confirmation, and the Holy Eucharist.

Be living a life of faith that is in keeping with the responsibility of serving as a godparent. This ordinarily means practicing the Catholic faith and striving to live according to the teachings of the Church.

Not be bound by any canonical penalty that has been legitimately imposed or declared.

Not be the father or mother of the child being baptized.

The Church also allows a baptized Christian from another ecclesial community to serve as a Christian witness, but only together with a Catholic godparent. A Christian witness is not a substitute for a Catholic godparent.

These requirements are not intended to exclude family members or close friends. Rather, they reflect the Church's conviction that every baptized child deserves someone who can truly accompany them in the Catholic faith. A godparent is more than an honorary title. He or she is a spiritual mentor, a prayer partner, and a faithful witness to the Gospel.

In a world filled with distractions and messages contrary to the Gospel, children need adults who can help them recognize the voice of Christ. Parents are the primary educators in the faith, and godparents are called to support them through prayer, encouragement, and the example of a faithful Catholic life.

The Parable of the Sower reminds us that while only God can give the gift of faith, He invites us to prepare the soil. Every prayer offered with a child, every Sunday Mass attended as a family, every act of charity, every conversation about Jesus, and every faithful example helps cultivate the soil where the seed of Baptism can grow and bear fruit "thirty, sixty, and a hundredfold."
