O FELIX CULPA

A Word from Our Pastor | 3

The Second Vatican Council's 1963 constitution Sacrosanctum Concilium ushered in the liturgical reforms to the Mass as most Catholics - to a large extent - know it today. The teaching of this document emphasized the faithful's "full, conscious, and active participation in liturgical celebrations." (§14.1) It allowed the sacrament to be celebrated in the vernacular language of the people; it restored lost components like Fr. Matt O'Toole the Prayers of the Faithful and the Offertory procession; it opened a variety of ministries to the lay faithful; and it encouraged incorporation of contemporary art in church buildings, vestry and music. Subsequent reforms followed in the years after the Council. The calendar of liturgical observances was revised. Receiving Holy Communion in the hand was allowed (which is, in fact, the more ancient and traditional form of receiving the Eucharist; not on the tongue!). And the Holy Order of permanent deacons returned.

All these changes were not entirely received with enthusiasm by the faithful. Catholics dismayed by the departure of the Mass familiar to them grumbled. To some, the new liturgy felt "too Protestant." For others, there was a loss of sacred mystery and the sense of other-worldliness that the old Mass provided with the use of Latin and the priest's back to the people softly speaking prayers at the altar. The theological basis for the changes called for by Sacrosanctum Concilium were challenged in some corners of the Church. One group of stalwarts called the reforms heretical and went into schism with Rome, establishing their own church that denies the entire legitimacy of Vatican II.

Popes Paul VI and John Paul II made accommodations for priests and other recognized groups of the faithful to celebrate the pre-conciliar Mass, mostly to assuage their emotional distress and only in special circumstances. In 2007, Pope Benedict XVI made the momentous decision to issue Summorum Pontificum. This decree lifted most of the restrictions on the use of the old Mass. Now there were two forms of the one Roman rite: the "Ordinary Form," used almost universally and in the vernacular; and the "Extraordinary Form," which is commonly referred to as the "Traditional Latin Mass."

Use of the Extraordinary Form of the Mass became particularly popular in the United States. In July 2021, Pope Francis reigned in what his predecessor allowed. In the accompanying letter to his papal rescript entitled Traditionis Custodes, Francis charged that the Extraordinary Form had been "exploited" by traditionalists in the Church, and its proliferation of use had encouraged disagreements and caused divisions among Catholics. Henceforward, a bishop must have a dispensation from the Holy See if he wishes to allow the pre-conciliar Mass to be celebrated in his diocese or to erect personal parishes dedicated to this same form. Francis called the path of liturgical reform begun by the Council "irreversible."

Sixty years on since Sacrosanctum Concilium, we can see that the implementation of change to worship continues to encounter some rankle by the faithful. But this is not necessarily bad, because it reminds us how important the sacrament of the Eucharist is for God's people. The manner in which this sacrament is celebrated is, for some, an issue of taste and style; and for others it is more importantly a theological expression of the Church's beliefs. What never changes and remains always true is that Jesus Christ comes to us in the Eucharist, by the proclamation of His Word and in the sharing of His Body and Blood. Amen!

EUCHARISTIC ADORATION

My Adoration Story: Jim Caruso

My introduction to the St. Peter Adoration community came shortly after serving on an ACTS team. I was asked if I would fill an opening on a team that covers 12 a.m.-1 a.m. every Wednesday. My commitment would be once per month. Without giving it much thought, I immediately accepted. Soon after, I started to question my decision. Can I really pray for a full hour? Will I know how to "do adoration" correctly? Am I a good enough Catholic to warrant the time with Jesus? My adoration hour has turned out to be a true blessing in my life. It is the most peaceful and prayerful moment of my life each month. Every day work and family commitments come at you fast and adoration has become my much needed retreat! I spend my adoration hour praying, reading the many books in the chapel, learning as much as possible about the history of our faith, and sometimes, just sitting quietly trying to listen to what Jesus wants for me.

The entrance to the chapel is through the prayer garden adjacent to Ursuline Hall on the east side of the church (0822). For more information see the parish website, stpeterkirkwood.org, or contact Susan Martin (314) 221-3104 or Jane Shea (314) 761-3425.

LET'S TALK ...

Conversations about illness, death and dying are never easy. Whether death comes suddenly or after a prolonged illness, most of us are not comfortable discussing our medical wishes or end-of-life plans with our loved ones. However, being prepared ensures that your final wishes are followed. It is important for you and your loved ones to understand the Church's teachings on end-of-life decisions. Advance planning on your part keeps your family from having to make these difficult decisions.

This free seminar is for people of all ages and life situations: single people, parents of young families, those caring for aging parents and those facing illness or death. There will be no solicitation at this event.

MARRIAGE MINISTRY:

General Info and Fall Fireside Night

The St. Peter Marriage Ministry started in 2022 to help couples grow together in faith through our vibrant parish. The ministry provides unique opportunities for couples to carve out time for reflection, prayer, sharing and community with others.

Through the marriage ministry, you'll find opportunities to slow down together and carve out time to grow closer to Jesus and one another.

STEWARDSHIP REFLECTION

26th Sunday in Ordinary Time

"Do nothing out of selfishness; rather, humbly regard others as more important than yourselves..." Philippians 2:3

Pride and ego are hard things to control. We see how others act or dress and think we are superior to them. We idolize our own self-image. But, if we truly believe everything is a gift from God, we recognize all the people that God has put in our lives as gifts! We are grateful for how they enrich our lives. Pray every day for the people in your life: your family, your friends and those who make you angry.
