STEWARDSHIP

Managing God's Gifts To Us

Who were the first people to try and grasp equality with God? That's right, Adam and Eve. Rather than Give or Empty themselves, they Took. Jesus reverses that.

In our second reading today from the second chapter of Philippians, Jesus, the New King David, does not grasp at His true divinity, but rather, empties Himself. When He empties himself, the new King takes on the form of a slave. He gives Himself away as act of obedience, humility, and love for the Father and each one of us.

As Christian Stewards, Disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ, we should pray and say, "I want that!" Bishop James Golka - Colorado Springs

CREATION CARE

On Good Friday, we confront the ways we may have caused suffering in the world. As we remember the death of Jesus, let us acknowledge the suffering we have all inflicted upon God's Creation. In our mourning, may we resolve to be healers and helpers. We can participate in the resurrection of our environment!

CULTURE OF LIFE

Isaiah uses the image of a loving mother to comfort the people of Israel, "Can a mother forget her infant, be without tenderness for the child of her womb? It is unthinkable, right? Impossible! Then to further reassure them he goes on to declare, "Even should she forget, I (God) will never forget you. See, upon the palms of my hands I have written your name." Isaiah 49:15

Can a mother forget? A baby lost before birth, miscarried or aborted, is not forgotten. A best friend's baby shower, a nephew's fifth birthday party, a child seen playing in the park, each a reminder to a mother that her child is no more. Like Rachel (Jeremiah 31:15) who mourns her children, who refuses to be consoled because her children are no more, a mother knows, a mother remembers, a mother mourns the loss of her child. Thankfully there are grieving and healing ministries available to help them.

The loss of a child to abortion affects people differently, some mourn, some just move on, some repress, self-medicate, and many suffer silently for years. Fortunately, there is help for those who come to recognize they need to deal with all those feelings of sorrow, regret and confusion that are common after an abortion. Rachel's Vineyard retreats (Diocese of Sacramento) and Hope retreats (LivingWell) offer help to post-abortion mothers, fathers and others affected by abortion. The programs provide an opportunity to examine their abortion experience, identify the ways that the loss has impacted their lives, and may help them acknowledge any unresolved emotion they may be experiencing. If you or someone you know might be ready to begin the journey of hope and healing, please consider participation in a retreat.

Upcoming Rachel's Vineyard retreats: April 28-30 and November 10-12 for English speakers and August 25-27 for Spanish speakers. Retreats are held at the Mercy Center in Auburn and financial help is available. 916-733-0161, 888-456-HOPE, projectrachel@sdcc.org, online registration available at <http://catholic.formstack.com/forms/rachel>.

For an opportunity to just talk with someone call Rachel's Vineyard National Hotline at 877-HOPE-4-ME (877-467-3463).

For information on LivingWell Hope retreats call 530-272-6800.

GOOD FRIDAY - HOLY LAND—COLLECTION

Pope Francis has asked our parish to support the Pontifical Good Friday Collection, which helps Christians in the Holy Land. Your support helps the church minister in parishes, provide Catholic schools and offer religious education. The Pontifical Good Friday Collection also helps to preserve the sacred shrines. The wars, unrest and instability have been especially hard on Christians. In these times of crisis, the Pontifical Good Friday Collection provides humanitarian aid to refugees. When you contribute to the Pontifical Good Friday Collection, you become an instrument of peace and join with Catholics around the world in solidarity with the Church in the Holy Land. PLEASE BE GENEROUS! For more information about Christians in the Holy Land, visit www.myfranciscan.org/good-friday To donate online, <https://myfranciscan.org/donation-page-pontifical-good-friday-collection/>.

Mt 21:1-11

Phil 2:6-11

The first reading provides the first moment of stark contrast between the procession's triumphant tones and the gravity of the passion. The glory of Jesus's entrance into Jerusalem was not for its own sake. The beautiful hymn of the second reading captures this paradox in all its fullness: Jesus shares God's being by rights, but by choice, humbles himself to death. It is this humility that allows his even greater exaltation and the worship we now bring to the one who gives us life.

Crucifixes are a common sight for us as Catholics, so common that we can fail to let them call to mind this story in its entirety. On the surface this looks like a gory, tragic story, but we know that it is, more truly, the story of the greatest love the world has ever known. The crucifix also points beyond itself; it is not the end of the story. We know that the resurrection is coming, and we trust in God's ability to make life ever new even as we share in the sorrow of the passion

The paired gospels of this Sunday give us the whole narrative arc of Holy Week. The triumph of Jesus's entrance into Jerusalem contrasts painfully with the crowds that turn on him in the passion narrative. One moment, though, brings us back to the truth; the centurion, a most unexpected source, affirms that this man truly was the Son of God. This is not the only time the passion story subverts expectations. The women epitomize bravery, staying near the grisly scene of the cross while the disciples who most staunchly averred their bravery are the first to run away. Religious leaders insist on Jesus's death while the occupying government tries to find ways to release him. Jesus's death does not happen quietly but affects the earth. We do not hear the end of the story here, the resurrection to which we so look forward, but we see very clearly that God is doing something new.

DEACON'S CORNER

Christ Jesus, though he was in the form of God, did not regard equality with God something to be grasped. Rather, he emptied himself, taking the form of a slave, coming in human likeness; and found human in appearance, he humbled himself, becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross.

As he entered Jerusalem the whole city was stirred to its depths, demanding, "Who is this?" And the crowd kept answering, "This is the prophet Jesus from Nazareth in Galilee"

During the meal Jesus took bread, blessed it, broke it, and gave it to his disciples. "Take this and eat it," he said, "this is my body." Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them. "All of you must drink from it," he said, "for this is my blood, the blood of the covenant, to be poured out in behalf of many for the forgiveness of sins"

On their way out they met a Cyrenian named Simon. This man they pressed into service to carry the cross.

Jesus cried out in a loud tone, "Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani?" "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?"

How will we live out this Holy Week? Is Our Lord's Passion just a historical event in our eyes? Does it stretch even beyond the sacrifice of the mass? Is Christ Crucified still occurring in the lives of the young and old around us? We often see ourselves with no more ability than that of the simple donkey on Palm Sunday or Simon the Cyrenian on Good Friday. But the very meaning of the Eucharist is to give us the vision to see Christ Crucified and help carry the Body of Christ. This true story, maybe not for the young, that is painfully poignant, is shared by Mark Adams in his book The Roads He Walked. In it, Mark challenges us to see not only Christ Crucified, but also, even in our most humble of acts that we can be a source of grace and mercy.

"Bill Wilson pastors an inner-city church in New York City. His mission field is a very violent place. He himself has been stabbed twice as he ministered to the people of the community surrounding the church. A Puerto Rican woman became involved in the church when all else failed in her life. After her conversion, she came to Pastor Wilson and said, "I want to do something to help with the church's ministry." He asked her what her talents were and she could think of nothing---she couldn't even speak English---but she did love children. So, he put her on one of the church's buses that went into neighborhoods and transported kids to church. Every week she performed her duties. She would find the worst-looking kid on the bus, put him on her lap and whisper over and over the only words she had learned in English: "I love you. Jesus loves you." After several months, she became attached to one little boy in particular. The boy didn't speak. He came to Sunday School every week with his sister and sat on the woman's lap, but he never made a sound. Each week she would tell him all the way to Sunday School and all the way home, "I love you and Jesus loves you." One day, to her amazement, the little boy turned around and stammered, "I---I---I love you too!" Then he put his arms around her and gave her a big hug. That was 2:30 on a Sunday afternoon. At 6:30 that night he was found dead. His own mother had beaten him to death. "I love you and Jesus loves you." Those were some of the last words this little boy heard in his short life---from the lips of a Puerto Rican woman who could barely speak English. This woman gave her one talent to God and because of that a little boy who never heard the word "love" in his own home, experienced and responded to the love of Christ."

That simple donkey, by just doing what he was created to do, carried Christ as Jesus revealed unequivocally that peace is found only when we choose to love. And Simon, that scared, frightened man, overcame his fear to act and stood and walked with Jesus and helped carry Our Lord's cross. How can we in our daily life bring Christ's peace to others? In what ways are we called to stand with Our Lord and help carry His Cross. When has the fear of others reactions or being cancelled kept us from acting or speaking out?

"Take this and eat it," he said, "this is my body." Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them. "All of you must drink from it," he said, "for this is my blood, the blood of the covenant, to be poured out in behalf of many for the forgiveness of sins.
