Dear Parishioners,

Our readings today talk about the kingdom of God – how it is established, how it grows, and how it will reach its fulfillment.

In the first reading, Ezekiel uses the image of a cedar tree planted at the top of a mountain to prophesy that God will restore Israel under a new king from the line of David. We know that Jesus is this new king, the long-awaited Messiah of Israel. But his kingdom is not the political dynasty the people hoped for. Jesus came to proclaim the kingdom of God.

In the Gospel, Jesus tells two parables about the kingdom of God. In the first, he says the kingdom is like a man who has scattered seed. He does not know how it grows, but he harvests it as soon as it is ripe. In the second, Jesus compares the kingdom of God to a mustard seed. Though it is a small seed, it grows into a large plant that can shelter birds in its branches.

In both parables there is a contrast between small or humble beginnings and great conclusions. There is also an element of mystery in the process of getting from the beginning to the end that suggests divine guidance. Jesus' description of the man sleeping and rising and watching his plants bear fruit of their own accord is not an accurate description of agriculture. Anyone who has grown a backyard garden knows there is weeding and watering and pruning to be done before the plants bear fruit. The emphasis of the parable is that God is the source of growth.

Where are we in these readings? Somewhere between the planting and the harvest. Jesus' birth, life, death, and resurrection are the seeds that have been planted. These seeds are scattered and sown each time we hear the word of God or celebrate the sacraments. The kingdom of God is already here. But we also know that Christ will come again. As Paul writes in the second reading, we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ.

Until then, we walk by faith, not by sight, knowing that what God has in store for us is greater than anything we could imagine. The work of the present is to build the kingdom of God, trusting that he will provide for its growth, even when we cannot see it. We are called to do good and avoid doing evil so we will be ready when harvest time comes.

Blessings,
Fr. Tad
