In today's second reading, Saint Paul calls upon the Philippians to "(be) of the same mind, with the same love, united in heart, thinking one thing." We come here today probably each thinking different things, but during this holy time together we pray that the Holy Spirit may unite us in heart and mind, with the love of God and love of neighbor we have in common, as we lift our voices to sing and pray as one.

ABOUT OUR FAITH

Q. I am a divorced

Catholic and I would like to get re-married in the Church. How do I do that?

A. Before you can be remarried in the Catholic Church, you need to obtain a Declaration of Nullity. This is also called an annulment. The annulment process can take up to a year and a half, and involves several steps. This first step is to make an appointment with the person who takes care of the annulments in your parish. He will help you fill out an application form, which is then sent to the Office of the Marriage Tribunal. Each diocese of the Catholic Church has a marriage tribunal. This is a court system where thousands of marriages are brought for examination.

Once your application form is accepted, you will receive a questionnaire and instructions on how to answer it. This questionnaire centers on retelling the story of your marriage. After you complete the questionnaire, you will be asked to have an interview with a person from the tribunal office, who will go over your testimony with you. These people are sworn to confidentiality and are usually psychologists.

The tribunal will also ask others, whom you name, to witness the history of your marriage. It is only when all the testimony and evidence is complete that the presiding judge studies your case and then makes a decision. Another panel of three judges studies your case and then makes a decision. If all goes well, you will then receive your Declaration of Nullity, signed by the judge and stamped with the official seal of the diocese.

Regard others as more important than yourselves. (Phillipians 2:3)

We live in a world that urges us to think in modules. We have a module for church and prayer. We have a module for work and a module for family. There is a financial module, a justice module, a crisis module, and a recreational module— and so many more!

Most of us can identify when our Mass module is at work. But it can be a little more challenging, shortly after Mass, when something rubs us the wrong way, how we slip into an irritated module or an angry module. Or perhaps we are in family mode when we kiss our kids good-bye after breakfast and head to work. But then we slip into work mode when we become curt, unbending, or demanding at our job.

Contrast this “module model” with today’s second reading. Here Paul calls us to be united and to care for each other all the time, not just when we are in “compassionate mode”. And to illustrate his point, he spoke of how Jesus’ whole life was one consistent yes to the Father, and that yes dictated how he would act in every situation.

Clearly, we shouldn’t let all of the modules in our lives control us. Taking our cue from Jesus, we should let one module control all of the others: the “life in the Spirit” module. Jesus was exalted at the right hand of God because he followed his Father in all things. Likewise, we will be exalted when we obey God’s commands and try our best to live in love.

So when the recreation module begins to draw you away from the Lord, stop and regroup. When the work module causes you to become agitated and upset, stop and make an adjustment. Let Jesus and his love become your overriding module, and you’ll find yourself living a more peaceful life.

RCIA is the process by which persons who were never baptized or were baptized in another Christian tradition, become full members of the Catholic Church.

Classes are open to everyone seeking spiritual growth and a deeper knowledge and understanding of our Catholic Faith and true discipleship.

Classes began on Thursday, October 1st at 6:30PM in classroom C. To register or for more information please call the church office and leave your name and contact number.

Feast of Saints Michael, Gabriel, and Raphael, Archangels

Jennifer Hubbard

A prayer was lifted in a whisper and joined by those who huddle close by; beads woven through fingers as their voices navigated the way of their heart. When they were finished, a noticeable peace lingered among those of us standing in rapt attention. After a few minutes, their voices lifted again with a prayer I had heard a million times, and yet, for some reason, this time— this time— my heart was opened and I heard it in a way I had never before. They acknowledged a battle and called on Saint Michael: that by the power of the heavenly Father, he would cast aside that which prowls outside the doors through which they would soon emerge.

Yes, death and destruction, confusion and disappointment are the trials that mark this earthly journey and remind us that an enemy lurks. When the trials are unbearable and the temptation is to despair, His word assures me: His warriors are in my midst. The archangels are God's chosen, sent to protect, to proclaim and to heal. They sound the trumpet call and offer an assurance that we need not fear: pleas for protection are answered (Dn10:12), and body and soul can be healed (Tb 3:17). They are the ones who now slay what I cannot see, proclaim what I may not understand, and heal a broken heart. His angel army assures me, like those to whom they were sent in Scripture, that I am not forsaken, that I am covered with love beyond my own knowing.

September 29 is the feast of The Archangels
St. MICHAEL, St. GABRIEL and St. RAPHAEL

St. Michael

Pray for me, St. Michael, and also for those I love. Protect us in all dangers of body and soul. Help us in our daily needs.

St. Gabriel

Pray for us, St. Gabriel the Archangel. That we may be made worthy of the promises of Christ.

St. Raphael

St. Raphael, help me to love and serve my God faithfully, to die in His grace, and finally to merit to join you in seeing and praising God forever in heaven. Amen.
