From the Pastor's Desk

Dear Parishioners,

As celebrate our independence this weekend, I wish to leave with you an excerpt of a reflection given by Fr. Bill Rowland. He is a religious order priest and the president of a Catholic school in Atlanta. In 2015, he wrote the following on freedom:

The contemporary American ideal of freedom can be described as being that of self-expression or self-determination. From this perspective, to be free means that I am the captain of my ship or my life. I set the agenda for it. I determine what is good or evil. This attitude is reflected in such statements as, "It's my life and I'll do with it what I want." or "Who are you to tell me what I can or cannot do?" or "You have your truth and I have mine." "Don't tread on me," is the revolutionary war slogan that best captures this understanding of the American ideal of freedom.

Now this understanding of freedom runs counter to the biblical and Catholic sensibility about freedom as a surrendering to God. From this biblical or Catholic perspective, we are truly free when we surrender our will, our intellect, our emotions, and our physical strength to God, when we place them in God's hands to be used to serve his purposes. The irony is that in surrendering to God, we become free to fulfill our destiny and to become more fully ourselves.

"How can that be?" you may ask. Well consider this. I realize that many of you are accomplished and successful business men and women, scientists, attorneys, athletes, musicians, artists, physicians and entrepreneurs. To be successful in any of those professions, all of you had to do one thing. You had to surrender your freedom.

In what way, you might ask. I follow the Cleveland Indians and long ago, I surrendered any hope that I would actually see them win the World Series! Anyway, the Indians have a young pitcher who is extremely talented but, he is also very headstrong. He didn't like to be told how to pitch. He was determined to do it his way. And doing it his way meant that he was forever pitching himself into trouble and eventually he pitched himself out of the baseball organization that had originally drafted him but grew tired of his stubbornness and idiosyncrasies. Cleveland took him and after three years of being very patient, he has made considerable progress. He realized that he had to surrender some of his preconceived ideas about how to pitch to the reality of how things need to be done to be a successful pitcher in the big leagues. There is still room for him to do some things his way but he has learned that there are some things that he can and cannot do if he is to be successful.

The reality is that there are certain, objective laws to pitching well just as there are certain, objective laws to running a successful business, playing a musical instrument, learning a language, and healing the sick. You better learn them and surrender to them, even become enslaved to them; that is, making them second-nature to you, because only then will you become free to be the pitcher, the artist, the musician, business person, the athlete, or the physician you want to be.

That is what St. Paul was getting at on the spiritual level when, on the one hand, he says, "It is for freedom that Christ has set you free," and then, on the other hand, he identifies himself to the Christians in Rome as, "Paul, a slave of Jesus Christ." St. Paul would never say, "It's my life and I will do with it what I want." Paul and all of the great saints never declared their independence from God. Neither should we as good Catholics and as good Americans.

Have a happy Independence Day celebration and a blessed week!
~Fr. Scott
