Help Us Welcome our New Principal to St. Rose School

Howdy everyone! My name is Taylor Jensen and I am truly honored for this opportunity to be a part of the St. Rose of Lima Catholic School community. I'm a proud wife to my wonderful husband, Shelby, and together we are raising two incredible and adventurous children—our daughter Harper and our son Stetson, who attend St. Rose.

I was born and raised in the small town of Goliad, Texas, where faith, family, and community were the cornerstones of my upbringing. From a young age, I stayed active in my church and local activities, and it was in those early years that I discovered my calling to become a teacher. I would often "play school" at home, with my younger brother as my very first student—patiently sitting through countless lessons that I prepared with joy and enthusiasm.

That passion for teaching never left me. I went on to attend Texas A&M University in College Station, where I obtained my bachelors and masters degrees and am currently a doctoral candidate at Texas A&M University! Aggieland is a very special place to me, as I also met my husband, Shelby, there. Our time there was a special chapter in our lives, full of growth, friendship, and faith.

I feel incredibly blessed to begin my journey at St. Rose of Lima Catholic School. St. Rose is a place where faith and education go hand in hand, guided by a deeply devoted and gifted staff. I've already been moved by the compassion and selflessness of the school's supporters, and I feel privileged to be part of a community so grounded in love and service.

My greatest joy is working with students and helping them grow—not just academically, but spiritually and socially as well. I am eager to see what this new chapter holds, and I thank God every day for leading me here!
