“And when He had said this, He breathed on them and said, ‘Receive the Holy Spirit.’” On this last day of the Easter season, the Feast of Pentecost, the Church reminds us that the Holy Spirit is the Lord’s enduring gift to the People of God. We need the Holy Spirit to be holy and ultimately, to be saved. Yet, how many Catholics have a devotion to the Holy Spirit? How many graces are lost because we don’t know the Holy Spirit and welcome Him into our lives? For example, when we are weak and give into temptations, we should pray to the Holy Spirit, the Strength from on high. When we are hurt by others or have hurt others, we turn to the Holy Spirit in prayer, for He is the Mercy of God. When we are filled with doubts, the Holy Spirit is the Truth. When we are troubled and burdened, the Holy Spirit is God’s Consolation and Peace. When we are filled with hatred, the Holy Spirit is Love. We need the Holy Spirit, to live a holy life and to grow in goodness and grace. With the Holy Spirit, we will be saved. Call upon the Holy Spirit daily in prayer; you will find peace and the promise of everlasting peace.

Insights into ecclesiology

As Catholics, we always approach Jesus Christ through the Church. Saint Paul, in his epistles to the Colossians and the Ephesians, reminded Christians that Jesus is the head of the Body of Christ. Therefore, it stands to reason that you cannot have one without the other; a head without a body and vice versa could not exist. Jesus Christ without the Church is a fallacy. We need the Church in our common journey to eternal life in heaven. Thus, in the next few weeks, we will study the role of the Church in the salvation of the People of God.

Is there salvation outside of the Church?

As a seminarian, I had a summer assignment as an assistant to the chaplain in a Catholic nursing home. One day, I visited an elderly woman who grew up near some of my Benz relatives (the Lutheran Benz families) near Killdeer. She had fond memories of them . . . how their families got along so well. But then she added, “Its too bad they weren’t Catholic and could not get to heaven.” I assured her that non-Catholics could go to heaven, and she seemed surprised . . . shocked really. She probably thought I was one of those liberal, progressive Catholics, who lost that good-old-time religion. But the idea that there is no salvation outside of the Church was likely something she heard in homilies and in catechism classes throughout her formative years in the Faith. Was the Church now changing doctrine on her? Well, not really. The Church fathers at the Second Vatican Council (1962-1965) did not depart from Tradition, but instead gave a fuller understanding of the Church’s role in the salvation of man.

The axiom, “Outside of the Church there is no salvation”, is notably associated with Saint Cyprian (d. 258), bishop of Carthage in North Africa. He applied this axiom to schismatic Catholics, particularly the Montanists, who refused to submit to the authority of the bishops. In response to their defiance, Saint Cyprian wrote, “Whoever breaks with the Church cuts himself off from the promise [salvation] made to the Church . . . he has lost life and soul.” In time, Saint Cyprian’s axiom came to be applied not only to schismatics, but to virtually all people who were not baptized members (of good standing) within the visible Catholic Church. Saint Augustine went so far as to teach that there was no hope for salvation for schismatics, heretics, Jews, and even unbaptized infants. The Church maintained the Augustinian approach to salvation for those outside of the Church well into the 1400’s. Underlying this teaching was the assumption that the Gospel had been preached to all peoples and anyone who rejected it could not be saved; they had only themselves to blame. But then something amazing came upon the scene; the discovery of new lands and new peoples during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. The assumption that the Gospel had been universally proclaimed was soon discarded and the axiom “Outside of the Church there is no salvation” underwent significant development. [To be continued]

Thank you for your generosity

In the life of our parishes, I am grateful for the spiritual and temporal works of our Catholic organizations: Christian Mothers; Women of Sacred Heart; and the Knights of Columbus. They do so much good and I am grateful for the kind deeds they take part in on behalf of our parishes and the broader Church as well. As we celebrate the Feast of Pentecost, I wish to thank you for being servants and witnesses of the Holy Spirit in your Catholic organizations. May God reward you!

Why not Minot . . . well, there is one glitch

Our summer youth trip to Minot and the State Fair, in the final days of July, will be here before you know it. I am looking forward to this fun trip, but there is one problem . . . we are short of funds. The Italian Meal was a great success, but it did not cover all of the costs for our summer trip, namely because of a good problem . . . 30 young people have signed up to go to the State Fair. We had a wonderful response! So, I am asking each parish to try and raise at least $800 in a fundraiser and I ask the parents and youth for some ideas. Saint Ann's has their fundraiser already in mind: a rummage sale at the church as part of the Old Red Trail Rummage Sale. I am asking for some ideas from Sacred Heart Parish. Sentiments were expressed about having the parish just pay for the shortfall, but I believe the youth have to take ownership in this venture. Besides, we want to teach the next generation that there is nothing in life that is free; we don't need another demographic of Americans adding onto the twenty-one trillion-dollar national debt! So, let's put on our thinking hats, roll up our sleeves and get to work. We could do a German bake sale, with Fr. Gary as the official food-taster . . . just throwing out ideas. Can you think of anyone more qualified than this priest, who has tons of German food showing up at his rectory door (hint, hint)?

On the lighter side

Parents spend the first part of the child's life urging him to walk and talk and the rest of his childhood making him sit down and keep quiet.

A point to ponder

A failure is the man who goes through life earning nothing but money.

Prayer for Rain: Heavenly Father, we are in need of rain. The soil of our fields is dry and hard, our grains and pastures are parched, our gardens and orchards are parched. We recognize and admit our total dependence upon you. It is only from your heavens that the rain comes down and does not return there until it has watered the earth, making it fertile and fruitful, giving seed to those who sow and bread to those who eat. With confidence in your providence and with trust in your Fatherly care, we humble and earnestly ask that you, Father, send life giving rain upon our fields and pastures that our crops may grow and our livestock may increase; protect them from hail and storm. We ask all this through your son Jesus who lives and reigns with you forever and ever. Amen.
