My soul is thirsting for you, O Lord (Comment on Psalm 62)

1. Psalm 62 on which we are reflecting today is the Psalm of mystical love, which celebrates total adherence to God based on an almost physical yearning and reaching its fullness in a close and everlasting embrace. Prayer becomes longing, thirst and hunger, because it involves the soul and the body.

As St Teresa of Avila wrote: "Thirst, I think, means the desire for something very necessary for us so necessary that if we have none of it we shall die." (The Way of Perfection, chap. XIX). The liturgy presents to us the first two verses of the Psalm which are indeed focused on the symbols of thirst and hunger, while the third verse evokes a dark horizon, that of the divine judgement of evil, in contrast to the brightness and confident longing of the rest of the Psalm. Believers long to be filled with God, the source of living water.

2. Let us begin our meditation with the first song, that of the thirst for God (cf. vv. 2-4). It is dawn, the sun is rising in the clear blue sky of the Holy Land, and the person praying begins his day by going to the temple to seek God's light. He has an almost instinctive, one might say "physical" need for that encounter with the Lord. Just as the dried-out earth is dead until it is watered by the rain and the earth's gaping cracks suggest the image of its parched and thirsty mouth, so the believer yearns for God, to be filled with him and thus to live in communion with him.

The prophet Jeremiah had already proclaimed: the Lord is the "source of living waters", and had reproached the people for building "broken cisterns, that can hold no water" (2: 13). Jesus himself would exclaim aloud: "If anyone thirsts, let him come to me; let him drink who believes in me" (Jn 7: 37-38). At high noon on a quiet, sunny day, he promises the Samaritan woman: "whoever drinks of the water that I shall give will never thirst; the water that I shall give will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life" (Jn 4: 14).

3. The prayer of Psalm 62 is interwoven with the song of the wonderful Psalm 42: "as the deer longs for flowing streams, so my soul longs for you, O God.... When shall I come and behold the face of God?" (vv. 2-3). Now in Old Testament language the Hebrew "soul" is indicated by the term nefesh, which in some texts means "throat" and whose meaning in many others is broadened to encompass the whole of the person. Taken in these dimensions, the word helps us to realize how essential and profound our need for God is; without him we lack breath and even life itself. For this reason the Psalmist comes to the point of putting physical existence itself on the second level, if union with God should be lacking: "for your steadfast love is better than life" (Ps 62: 3). In Ps 73 he will also repeat to the Lord: "There is nothing upon earth that I desire besides you. My flesh and my heart may fail, but God is the strength of my heart and my portion for ever.... for me it is good to be near God" (Ps 73: 25-28).

4. After the song about thirst, the Psalmist sings a song about hunger (cf. Ps 62: 5-8). With the images of "the soul feasting as with marrow and fat" and of being filled, the person praying is probably referring to one of the sacrifices that were celebrated in the temple of Zion: the so-called sacrifice "of communion", that is, a sacred banquet at which the faithful ate the flesh of the sacrifice. Another fundamental need of life is used here as a symbol of communion with God: hunger is appeased when people hear the divine Word and encounter the Lord. Indeed "man does not live by bread alone, but ... by everything that proceeds out of the mouth of the Lord" (Dt 8: 3; cf. Mt 4: 4). And here flashes across the Christian's mind the thought of the banquet that Christ prepared on the last evening of his earthly life, whose deep value he had explained in his discourse at Capernaum: "For my flesh is food indeed, and my blood is drink indeed. He who eats my flesh and drinks my blood abides in me, and I in him" (Jn 6: 55-56).

5. Through the mystical food of communion with God, "the soul clings to him" as the Psalmist says. Once again the word "soul" suggests the whole human being. Here one rightly finds the mention of an embrace, an almost physical clinging; henceforth God and man are in full communion and on the lips of his creature only joyful and grateful praise can bloom. Even during the dark night we feel protected by God's wings, just as the ark of the Covenant is covered by the wings of the cherubim. And then the ecstatic expression of jubilation blossoms: "In the shadow of your wings I sing for joy". Fear is dispelled, the embrace does not cling to emptiness but to God himself, our souls are upheld by the power of his right hand (cf. Ps 62: 7-8).

6. In reading the Psalm in the light of the Easter mystery, our hunger and thirst which impel us towards God find their fulfillment in the crucified and risen Christ, from whom we receive the gift of the Spirit and the sacraments which give us new life and the nourishment that sustains it.

St John Chrysostom reminds us in commenting on the Johannine phrase: from his side "flowed blood and water" (cf. Jn 19: 34), he says "that baptism and the mysteries [that is, the Eucharist] were symbolized in that blood and water". And he concludes: "Have you seen how Christ has united his bride to himself? Have you seen with what kind of food he feeds us all? By the same food we are formed and are fed. As a woman feeds her child with her own blood and milk, so too Christ himself continually feeds those whom he has begotten with his own blood" (Homily III address to catechumens, 16-19 passim: SC 50 bis, 160-162).

Catechism of the Catholic Church on the Angels

328 The existence of the spiritual, non-corporeal beings that Sacred Scripture usually calls "angels" is a truth of faith. The witness of Scripture is as clear as the unanimity of Tradition.

329 St. Augustine says: "'Angel' is the name of their office, not of their nature. If you seek the name of their nature, it is 'spirit'; if you seek the name of their office, it is 'angel': from what they are, 'spirit', from what they do, 'angel.'" With their whole beings the angels are servants and messengers of God. Because they "always behold the face of my Father who is in heaven" they are the "mighty ones who do his word, hearkening to the voice of his word".

PHÚC ÂM: Mt 14, 22-33

"Xin truyền cho con đi trên mặt nước mà đến cùng Thầy".

Tin Mừng Chúa Giêsu Kitô theo Thánh Matthêu.

Khi dân chúng đã ăn no, lập tức Chúa Giêsu giục môn đệ trở xuống thuyền mà qua bờ bên kia trước, trong lúc Người giải tán dân chúng. Giải tán họ xong, Người lên núi cầu nguyện một mình. Đến chiều, Người vẫn ở đó một mình. Còn thuyền thì đã ra giữa biển, bị sóng đánh chập chờn vì ngược gió.

Canh tư đêm tối, Người đi trên mặt biển mà đến với các ông. Thấy Người đi trên mặt biển, các ông hoảng hồn mà nói rằng: "Ma kia!", và các ông sợ hãi kêu la lớn tiếng. Lập tức, Chúa Giêsu nói với các ông rằng: "Hãy yên tâm. Thầy đây, đừng sợ!" Phêrô thưa lại rằng: "Lạy Thầy, nếu quả là Thầy, thì xin truyền cho con đi trên mặt nước mà đến cùng Thầy".

Chúa phán: "Hãy đến!" Phêrô xuống khỏi thuyền, bước đi trên mặt nước mà đến cùng Chúa Giêsu. Khi thấy gió mạnh, ông sợ hãi và sắp chìm xuống nên la lên rằng: "Lạy Thầy, xin cứu con!" Lập tức, Chúa Giêsu giơ tay nắm lấy ông mà nói: "Người hèn tin, tại sao mà nghi ngờ?" Khi cả hai đã lên thuyền thì gió liền yên lặng. Những người ở trong thuyền đều lạy Người mà rằng: "Thật, Thầy là Con Thiên Chúa". Đó là lời Chúa.

After they got into the boat, the wind died down. Those who were in the boat did him homage, saying, "Truly, you are the Son of God." (Mt. 14:32-33) Even amid the storms, that threaten to sweep us way, we need not fear: Jesus Christ, God-with-us, keeps us even through the wildest of storms. God is the God of all of life-the chaos of the sea, the security of the land, the storm and the stillness.

PRO LIFE

Although we may feel unsure how best to comfort those who mourn, we must stand with them in their time of suffering. Miscarriage touches the lives of many people, yet all too often this tragedy remains unaddressed. This lack of response not only often leads to unresolved grief but also fails to clearly manifest our belief that each person, from conception onward, is precious and unique.

Rosary Society

The Rosaries you pray for this week will be for those grieving after a miscarriage; may they be comforted by Christ's everlasting love and His presence amidst their sorrow.

Cuando los discípulos lo vieron caminando sobre el mar, se aterrorizaron. "Es un fantasma", dijeron, y gritaron de miedo. De inmediato [Jesús] les habló: "Ten ánimo, soy yo; [b] no tengas miedo". Peter le respondió: "Señor, si eres tú, mandame que vaya a ti en el agua". Él dijo: "Ven". Peter salió del bote y comenzó a caminar sobre el agua hacia Jesús. Pero cuando vio cuán [fuerte] era el viento, se asustó; y, comenzando a hundirse, gritó: "¡Señor, sálvame!" Inmediatamente Jesús extendió su mano y lo atrapó, y le dijo: "Oh, tú de poca fe, [c] ¿por qué dudaste?" Despues de subir al bote, el viento se calmó. Los que estaban en el bote le homenajearon, diciendo: "En verdad, tú eres el Hijo de Dios".

Evangelio Mt 14, 22-33

En aquel tiempo, inmediatamente después de la multiplicación de los panes, Jesús hizo que sus discípulos subieran a la barca y se dirigieran a la otra orilla, mientras él despedía a la gente. Después de despedirla, subió al monte a solas para orar. Llegada la noche, estaba él solo allí.

Entretanto, la barca iba ya muy lejos de la costa, y las olas la sacudían, porque el viento era contrario. A la madrugada, Jesús fue hacia ellos, caminando sobre el agua. Los discípulos, al verlo andar sobre el agua, se espantaron, y decían: "¡Es un fantasma!" Y daban gritos de terror. Pero Jesús les dijo enseguida: "Tranquilíicense y no teman. Soy yo".

Entonces le dijo Pedro: "Señor, si eres tú, mándame ir a ti caminando sobre el agua". Jesús le contestó: "Ven". Pedro bajó de la barca y comenzó a caminar sobre el agua hacia Jesús; pero al sentir la fuerza del viento, le entró miedo, comenzó a hundirse y gritó: "¡Sálvame, Señor!" Inmediatamente Jesús le tendió la mano, lo sostuvo y le dijo: "Hombre de poca fe, ¿por qué dudaste?"

En cuanto subieron a la barca, el viento se calmó. Los que estaban en la barca se postraron ante Jesús diciendo: "Verdaderamente tú eres el Hijo de Dios".
