From A Catechesis of Pope Francis on Old Age - 9 Judith. Admirable in youth, generous in old age

Today we will talk about Judith, a biblical heroine. The conclusion of the book that bears her name summarizes the final part of the life of this woman, who defended Israel from its enemies. Judith is a young and virtuous Jewish widow who, thanks to her faith, beauty and cunning, saved the city of Bethulia and the people of Judah from the siege of Holofernes, general of Nebuchadnezzar king of Assyria, an overbearing and contemptuous enemy of God. And so, with her astute way of acting, she was able to slit the throat of the dictator who came against the country. She was brave. She had faith.

After the great adventure in which she was the protagonist, Judith returned to live in her town, Bethulia, where she lived her old age beautifully, until she was 105. The time of old age had come for her, as it does for many people: sometimes after an intense life of work, sometimes after an adventurous existence, or one of great dedication. Heroism does not consist only of the great events that fall under the spotlight, such as that of Judith, who killed the dictator. Heroism is often found in the tenacity of love poured out in a difficult family and on behalf of a threatened community. Judith lived for more than 100 years, a special blessing. But it is not uncommon today to live many years after the season of retirement. How should we interpret this? How should we make the most of this time we have? I will retire today, and will have many years ahead of me, and what can I do, in these years? How can I grow in authority, in holiness, in wisdom?

For many people, the prospect of retirement coincides with that of a deserved and long-awaited rest from demanding and wearisome activities. But it also happens that the end of work can be a source for worry and is accompanied with some trepidation. “What will I do, now that my life will be emptied of what filled it for so long?” This is the question. Daily work also means a set of relationships, the satisfaction of earning a living, the experience of having a role, well-deserved recognition, a time that is full that goes beyond working hours alone. Certainly, there is the joyful and tiring task of looking after grandchildren, and grandparents today have a very important role in the family in helping to raise grandchildren; but we know that ever fewer children are born nowadays, and parents are often farther away, more subject to moving around, with unfavorable work and housing conditions. At times they are also more reluctant to leave room to grandparents for education, granting only what is strictly linked to the need for assistance. But someone said to me, “Nowadays, in this socio-economic situation, grandparents have become more important because they have a pension”. There are new demands, also within the area of educational and family relations, that require us to reshape the traditional alliance between the generations.

But let us ask ourselves: are we making this effort to “reshape”? Or do we simply suffer the inertia of material and economic conditions? The co-presence of generations is, in fact, lengthening. Are we all trying together to make these conditions more human, more loving, more just, in the new conditions of modern societies? For grandparents, an important part of their vocation is to support their sons and daughters in the upbringing of their children. The little ones learn the power of tenderness and respect for frailty: irreplaceable lessons that, are easier to impart and receive with grandparents. For their part, grandparents learn that tenderness and frailty are not solely signs of decline: for young people, they are conditions that humanize the future.

Judith was soon widowed and had no children, but, as an old woman, she was able to live a season of fullness and serenity, in the knowledge that she had lived to the fullest the mission the Lord had entrusted to her. It was time for her to leave the good legacy of wisdom, tenderness, and gifts for her family and her community: a legacy of goodness and not only of goods. When we think of a legacy, at times we think of goods, and not of the goodness that is done in old age, and that has been sown, that goodness that is the best legacy we can leave.

It was precisely in her old age that Judith “granted freedom to her favorite handmaid.” This is a sign of an attentive and humane approach to those who had been close to her. This maid had accompanied her at the moment of that adventure, to win over the dictator and to cut his throat. When we are old, we lose some of our sight, but our inner gaze becomes more penetrating — one sees with the heart. We become capable of seeing things that had previously escaped us. The elderly know how to look, and they know how to see... It is true: the Lord does not entrust his talents only to the young and the strong. He has talents for everyone, made to fit each person, the elderly too. The life of our communities must know how to benefit from the talents and charisms of so many elderly people who are already retired, but who are a wealth to be treasured. On the part of the elderly themselves, this requires a creative attention, a new attention, a generous availability. The previous skills of active life lose their constraint and become resources to be given away: teaching, advising, building, caring, listening ... preferably in favor of the most disadvantaged who cannot afford any learning or who are abandoned in their loneliness.

Judith freed her maid and showered everyone with attention. As a young woman, she had won the esteem of the community with her courage. As an old woman, she garnered esteem because of the tenderness with which she enriched their freedom and affections. Judith is not a pensioner who lives her emptiness in melancholy. She is a passionate elderly woman who fills the time God gives her with gifts. Read this story of a courageous woman who ends up this way, with tenderness, generosity, a worthy woman. And this is how I would like all our grandmothers to be. All like this: courageous, wise, and who bequeath to us not money, but the legacy of wisdom, sown in their grandchildren.

PHÚC ÂM: Lc 16, 10-13 {hoặc 1-13}
 tiền của gian dối" Các con không thể làm tôi Thiên Chúa mà lại làm tôi tiền của được".

Tin Mừng Chúa Giêsu Kitô theo Thánh Luca.

Khi ấy, Chúa Giêsu phán cùng các môn đệ rằng: {"Một người phú hộ kia có một người quản lý, và người này bị tố cáo đã phung phí của chủ. Ông chủ gọi người quản lý đến và bảo rằng: 'Tôi nghe nói anh sao đó? Anh hãy tính sổ công việc quản lý của anh, vì từ nay, anh không thể làm quản lý nữa'. Người quản lý nghĩ thầm rằng: 'Tôi phải làm thế nào, vì chủ tôi cất chức quản lý của thành trong việc, thì ai sẽ giao phó của chân thật cho các con?"

"Không đầy tớ nào có thể làm tôi hai chủ: vì hoặc nó ghét chủ này và mến chủ kia; hoặc phục chủ này và khinh chủ nọ. Các con không thể làm tôi Thiên Chúa mà lại làm tôi tiền của được". Đó là lời Chúa. Tôi? Cuộc đất thì không nổi, ăn mày thì hổ ngươi. Tôi biết phải liệu thế nào, để khi mất chức quản lý, thì sẽ có người đón tiếp tôi về nhà họ'.

"Vậy anh gọi từng con nợ của chủ đến và hỏi người thứ nhất rằng: 'Anh mắc nợ chủ tôi bao nhiêu?' Người ấy đáp: 'Một trăm thùng dầu'. Anh bảo người ấy rằng: 'Anh hãy lấy văn tự, ngồi xuống mau mà viết lại: năm mươi'. Rồi anh hỏi người khác rằng: 'Còn anh, anh mắc nợ bao nhiêu?' Người ấy đáp: 'Một trăm giỏ lúa miến'. Anh bảo người ấy rằng: 'Anh hãy lấy văn tự mà viết lại: tám mươi'. Và chủ khen người quản lý bất lương đó đã hành động cách khôn khéo: vì con cái đời này khi đối xử với đồng loại thì khôn khéo hơn con cái sự sáng.

"Phản Thầy, Thầy bảo các con: Hãy dùng tiền của gian dối mà mua lấy bạn hữu, để khi mất hết tiền bạc, thì họ sẽ đón tiếp các con vào chôn an nghỉ đời đời.}

"Ai trung tín trong việc nhỏ, thì cũng trung tín trong việc lớn; ai gian dối trong việc nhỏ, thì cũng gian dối trong việc lớn. Vậy nếu các con không trung

Pro Life

Throughout salvation history, God has welcomed repentant sinners with special joy. Jesus concludes the parable of the lost sheep with these words: "there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner who repents than over ninety-nine righteous people who have no need of repentance"
