Notice on Security Changes During Mass

With the ever increasing assaults on our public, religious and governmental gathering places, we are taking steps to secure our worship environment during all Sunday Masses and any Masses celebrated throughout the liturgical year.

Effective immediately, the main doors facing the Kelly Street side will be locked after 11:05AM and 1:05PM.

We also ask that you remain vigilant, not put yourself or family in harms way and report any suspicious activity to the security that we will have in place.

Let us live and worship in Peace

Weekly Reflection from Fr. Pau

Ecclesiasticus 15: 16-21 say, fire and water, life and death are set before us and we can choose freely to observe the laws given to us by a loving and caring God. God never commanded anyone to be godless, he has given no one permission to sin." God always wants us to have life and live in Him, yet we still could choose death instead of life.

There should be no compromise with the prevailing culture when it came to keeping God's law. God never forces us to do good or evil. It is our free choice to obey or disobey God's laws, and we are responsible for the consequences of our choices. This is the clearest statement in all of the canonical and deuterocanonical OT writings on the subject of human free will.

God revealed His laws through Moses and the prophets in the Old Testament. For the Israelites, the Torah was not a set of laws, but the teachings intended to promote the holiness and wholeness of each believer. It was the revealed will of a caring God for His Chosen People, those with whom He had made His covenant.

The ten commandments are based on the principle of reverence and the principle of respect. In the first four of the Ten Commandments we ask to reverence God, His holy Name and His holy Day and to reverence our father and mother. The next six commandments instruct us to respect life, one's personal integrity and good name, the legal system, another's property and another's spouse. Our obedience to the laws must be prompted by our love for God and our gratitude to God for His blessings.

Let us allow God's word of truth to penetrate our minds and hearts and obey God's Law and have life.
