ONE OF A KIND EVENT!

BIG BAD
VOODOO DADDY

"What we do is wild and swingin', it's Forties music with a post Millennium twist." says singer songwriter-guitarist and bandleader, Scotty Morris. BIG BAD VOODOO DADDY helped define what is known as neo-lounge music when the band was featured in the hit film Swingers. "We're an alternative to retro. We're high octane nitro-jive, which means that we're loud, wild and totally edgy." Back in the Forties, swing was punk rock, the swingin' inner city juke joint music that set the entire rock'n'roll revolution in motion. In the last five years, BIG BAD VOODOO DADDY has performed the world over and has played on more than 500 concert stages across the U.S. As a testament to the band's cutting edge attitude, class and stylishness, they remain favorites within the entertainment industry, performing at numerous insider events such as The Billboard Awards, a host of first run film premiers, A-List celebrity parties and prestigious events like the Super Bowl and the opening of the Getty Center. In a world where everything old is new again - BIG BAD VOODOO DADDY isn't yesterday, it's today and it's the future.

Five young talents, known as DIVERSE LINK, first set foot onto the music scene just three years ago and their captivating sound has won many loyal fans and followers ever since. With the recent release of their first CD entitled, "Enjoy the Ride", the band has begun to taste the very sweetness of blossoming success. In what radio stations classify as alternative rock, band members Danny Bendt, Loren Harris, Bradley Morilla, Brian Shepard and J.T. Tanner blend reggae, hip hop and good ole rock'n'roll into their original tunes. After hearing the group, it's easy to understand the strong label interest and their widespread appeal. See and hear DIVERSE LINK now....later you can say you saw them when...

JACK STRAWS PIRATE LANDING PARTY

Avast, me hearties! Maritime merriment abounds as a zany group of buccaneers washes ashore with their own special blend of vocal harmony, instrumental wizardry, and outrageous comedy. You'll be hooked!

Hailing from El Cerrito, California in the late sixties, Creedence Clearwater Revival burst onto the music scene with some of the gutsiest, exciting, joyous, get-down rock'n'roll the world had ever experienced. The band had an unusual raw and creative energy that made fans out of an entire generation. With hits like "Proud Mary", "Susie Q", "Green River", "Bad Moon Rising" and "Looking Out My Back Door" to name a few, the band continues to sell millions of albums every year. CREEDENCE CLEARWATER REVISITED features original drummer Doug "Cosmo" Clifford and bassist Stu Cook who are dedicated to the faithful recreation of the sound that rocked a world. Revisited or reformed -- good music and good fun is what you'll get "Down on this Corner". A must hear-to-believe experience - don't miss it!

Under the leadership of JOSE HERNANDEZ, MARIACHI SOL DE MEXICO has truly emerged as "The Nations Premier Mariachi" recognized as such by both the Latin and mainstream music industry. His compositions parallel the colorful, passionate and celebratory moods of his native land, while skirting the edges of classical, pop, jazz and swing. To listeners weaned on traditional Mariachi sounds, José's earthy, irreverent renditions are becoming instant classics as he blends the noble Mariachi heritage with raw contemporary passion and powerful new rhythms. MARIACHI SOL DE MEXICO became the first Mariachi group in the United States to play symphonic Mariachi arrangements and is the only known group who performs regularly on the classical music circuit. A visionary bandleader and songwriter, José Hernandez is the pride of his profession. If Latin America had a musical laureate, he could most certainly lay claim to that prestigious title.

FREDDY FENDER

In an amazing run that spans a little over four decades, FREDDY FENDER has had three hugely successful careers in three separate markets. He first emerged on to the music scene in the late Fifties recording Spanish versions of American pop hits and was known in Mexico and Latin America as a rising Hispanic pop star. After a self-imposed hiatus of nearly fifteen years, he resurfaced as a country pop star with "Before The Next Teardrop Falls" which went to number one on both the country and pop charts. He topped this success with a remake of "Wasted Days and Wasted Nights", and followed that with "Secret Love" and "You'll Lose a Good Thing". In the Nineties, FENDER performed with the Grammy award winning Texas Tornados - once more placing him in front of major market audiences, this time those oriented toward roots rock and progressive blues. And as if all of the above weren't enough to win over fans, FREDDY FENDER has reinforced his success with numerous film and television projects including his breakthrough performance in the epic "Milagro Beanfield War". Multi-talented, and appealing to a multitude of cultures. At the 44th Annual Grammy Awards, FREDDY received a Grammy for Best Latin pop album titled "La Musica De Baldemar Huerta". FREDDY FENDER is truly a man for all seasons.
