I served as a missionary in Africa for three years where I worked with the native clergy and sisters. In Africa one of my most consistent requests of my workers was that they keep oil in the vehicles. Time and time again I had to remind them to make sure there was sufficient oil in the engine. There were more vehicles sitting in the junk pile simply because they thought the oil light meant it was time to get a new car. When I would go into one of my tirades about how, if they didn't keep oil in the cars, the engine would overheat or even freeze up completely; they would look at me like I had the brain of a chicken. I would try to explain that without oil, the friction caused by the moving parts of the engine would create so much heat that the metal would expand and then grind to a halt. It would freeze up and we would be left with a solid piece of junk!

I find it amazing that we use OIL in the sacraments to symbolize the coming of the Holy Spirit, who was seen as "tongues of fire" resting upon the disciples. Of all the Persons of the Blessed Trinity, the most difficult one to speak of is the Holy Spirit.

Sure, we can talk about the dove that rested on Jesus at his baptism and the tongues of fire. But mostly we know the Spirit through how people act when the Spirit takes hold of their lives.

In today's first reading, the disciples who had been hiding together suddenly begin speaking boldly and publicly drawing the attention of the crowds gathered in Jerusalem from all over the world for the Jewish feast of Pentecost, 50 days after Passover. If you have a fear of public speaking, add to that fear the terror that someone may kill you for what you have to say, and you can get some hint of the difference the Spirit made in the lives of those early disciples on that first Pentecost.

If you read the rest of the Acts of the Apostles, you'll see how, once the oil of the Holy Spirit was poured out upon that little group of disciples frozen in fear, the church really took off like wild-fire! The Word of God spread, thousands were baptized, people changed the way they lived, believers stood strong in the face of persecution and death, and barriers between people came tumbling down. In-Believable!

And then continue reading the history of the Church from the time the New Testament ends to the present, and you'll see how the Holy Spirit continued to work.

And then, look around you and recall the amazing things that have happened in the Church in your lifetime, in your families, in this parish, and you can't help but see the Holy Spirit at work! No doubt, most of us discover the Spirit's presence in hindsight. Perhaps we need to take more time to think and pray about our experiences in order not to miss how the Spirit is working IN and AMONG us!

Perhaps we need to replenish the oil of confirmation that is slowly going dry before we become frozen in the fear that tends to paralyze our lives!

The problem of this Pentecost is not that we have yet to be given the power of the Spirit, but maybe we just don't want such fire and wind in our lives. When the Spirit comes, as today's First Reading told us, it is like fire and wind and people change. A well kindled fire can spread. And if you have ever sailed, you know the uncontrollable nature of the wind. The trouble is, we'd all rather be drivers than riders. How we hesitate to turn over the controls, even to God. People, if God is the co-pilot of your life, you're in the wrong seat!!!!

St. Paul, in today's Second Reading, tells us what will happen if we did: "To each person the manifestation of the Spirit is given for the common good." If we accept the power of the Spirit we will live for others. The common good will take precedence over personal wants. And on that day, the world will notice us, for we will be counter-cultural. And our society tells us that the greatest sin is to be counter-cultural.

This Pentecost we must do more than just pray, "Lord, send out your Spirit and renew the face of the earth." We must realize that God has already sent forth his Spirit upon us. All that remains is that we, go forth, in the power of the Spirit, and, for God's sake, renew the face of the earth.

In Christ, Fr. Jerry

"There are different kinds of spiritual gifts but the same Spirit; there are different forms of service but the same Lord; there are different workings but the same God who produces all of them in everyone." ~ 1 CORINTHIANS 12:4-6

All of us are blessed, regardless of our own individual circumstances. God has given each of us many gifts. How we use those gifts is our gift back to God. For God's plan to work, each must do what we are called to do. Guess what? We are not all called to do the same thing! For God's plan to work you have to do what God is calling you to do and I have to do what God is calling me to do.
