Please call the Parish Office for information.

A number of our youth will be receiving their First Holy Eucharist at the Masses this weekend. In addition to keeping the First Communicants in our prayers, it would also be a good practice to revisit the teachings from the saints and Church Fathers regarding the Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist.

St. Ignatius of Antioch was a disciple of the Apostle John. He was the third bishop of Antioch, an important center of Christianity in the apostolic period. Around 110 AD, St. Ignatius wrote seven letters to various churches on his way to be martyred in Rome. In his letter to the Romans, he writes: I have no taste for corruptible food nor for the pleasures of this life. I desire the Bread of God, which is the Flesh of Jesus Christ, who was of the seed of David; and for drink I desire His Blood, which is love incorruptible.

St. Justin Martyr was born about the time the last Apostle, St. John, died in Ephesus. Justin converted in Ephesus around 130 AD, where he was instructed by disciples of St. John. He is considered the greatest Christian apologist of the second century. Around 150 AD, in his famous Apology to the Emperor at Rome, St. Justin writes: We call this food Eucharist; and no one is permitted to partake of it, except one who believes our teaching to be true...For not as common bread or common drink do we receive these; but since Jesus Christ our Savior was made incarnate by the word of God and had both flesh and blood for our salvation, so too, as we have been taught, the food which has been made into the Eucharist by the Eucharistic prayer set down by Him, and by the change of which our blood and flesh is nourished, is both the Flesh and the Blood of that incarnated Jesus.

St. Irenaeus is another very important early Church Father. He was bishop of Lyons and lived from 140-202 AD. St. Irenaeus studied under St. Polycarp, who was another disciple of St. John the Apostle. St. Irenaeus is considered the greatest theologian of the immediate post-apostolic period. Around 195 AD, St. Irenaeus writes: He [Jesus] had declared the cup, a part of creation, to be His own Blood, from which He causes our blood to flow; and the bread, a part of creation, He has established as His own Body, from which He give increase to our bodies.

These early Church Fathers prove that early Christians firmly believed in the Real Presence of Christ in the Eucharist. We also notice that St. Ignatius was personally instructed by St. John the Apostle. St. Justin Martyr and St. Irenaeus each had direct contact with St. John's disciples. These three men are first-and second-generation disciples of the author of John chapter 6. Who could be in a better position to tell us whether Jesus was speaking literally or figuratively about the need to eat His body and drink His blood? No one. These witnesses are as close as we can get to the apostolic Church. Their testimony is irrefutable and unmistakable: the original Christian Church believed in the Real Presence from the very beginning.

Every time we receive our Lord in the Holy Eucharist, we receive a gift beyond comparison. Whether we are receiving Him for the first time or the thousandth time we cannot fully comprehend the goodness of our Lord in the Eucharist. In the words of St. John Vianney, "There is nothing so great as the Eucharist. If God has something more precious, He would have given it to us."

In Christ, Fr. Michael
