"And behold, I am with you always, until the end of the age"

So, what's the real significance of the Ascension, and what difference does it make to the overall message of the Gospel and what we believe about Jesus as being fully God and fully human? Every week we profess in our Creed that Jesus ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. Right after this we then make the most amazing of assertions that, having ascended to glory, Jesus will come back to judge all of humanity.

As Christians we believe that the Ascension is more than just an orderly completion to Jesus' earthly life and ministry. It's an event that has consequences for all humanity – that our Lord, Jesus Christ, having defeated death, will come back again in glory to judge the living and the dead and to establish His eternal Kingdom of light and truth.

To unbelievers, this doesn't compute. To unbelievers, the Ascension seems impossible. But to the Christian believer, the Ascension is Christ's journey home to His eternal Father, to the One who first entrusted Him with the mission of salvation for humanity. The Ascension is, therefore, the completion of the great mystery of salvation that began with the Annunciation, when "the Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us" (John 1:14), taking to Himself a human existence like ours.

Even in this leaving, Jesus promises to be with His disciples through the ages; He won't abandon them or us, but through the mystery of the Ascension, He who once walked among mankind on earth will now be present to every generation and age. In many ways, without this indispensable piece of the Christian story, Christianity would be nothing more than a religion of memories. We'd simply be recalling and celebrating past events, but they wouldn't have a real and eternal impact on our lives.

With the Ascension, Jesus not only returns to His Father, but does so as the risen Lord, with the whole of His earthly life, His ministry, His passion and death, and His resurrection. From this great moment on, all humanity has been gifted a place in the eternal life of God: For now, one Who was like us has ascended and taken His place at the right hand of the Father.

As we celebrate this great feast of our faith, let us hear with loving hearts, the promise of Christ that "I am with you always, until the end of the age" (Matthew 28:20), and that He will send His Spirit upon each of us, so we might be enlightened in faith and in all ways to our new identity in Christ. Let us pray that as we go forth following the Ascension, we might be filled with the hope of eternal life in God, a hope established in our Lord, Jesus Christ, who is both God and man.

Have a blessed week,
Deacon Robb †
