A Note From Fr. Patrick

The Catholic Both/And

Recently, I have had a number of conversations with parishioners, students and residents, about the challenges and the difficulties we all face, individually and societally, in confronting the injustices and dangers which surround us and working to create a better, more just, more peaceful world.

People are anxious, concerned, confused—you name the emotion, people are experiencing it right now. As a result, we see the fight/flight principle in full effect. Some people are diving into every issue; others are completely frozen. Many are somewhere in between. As a parish community, as men and women of faith, we are called, perhaps now more than ever, into the challenging breach of the both/and of Catholicism.

At his Mass of Installation as archbishop, Archbishop Thompson had this to say about the Catholic Both/And. “Far too often, we are being confronted with an ‘either/or’ mentality. We must dare to counter the growing polarization, division and radical individualism that breed fear, distrust, hatred, indifference, prejudice, selfishness, despair, violence and radical ideology. Our role as people of faith—I especially hold myself accountable as bishop—is to be willing to stand in the breach of the divide, drawing people back from the ledges of extremism in self-indulgence and self-righteousness by serving as bridges of unity, ambassadors of hope, instruments of peace. To do so, we must allow the seed, as the Gospel reminds us, the word of everlasting life, Jesus himself, to take root in the very rich soil of our very souls, of our being.”

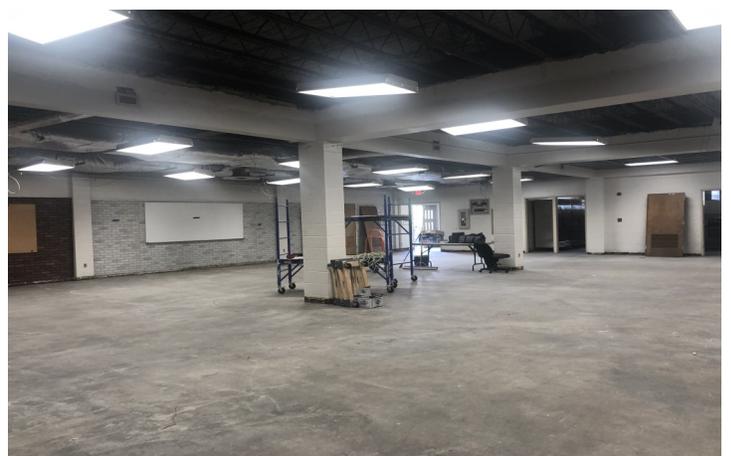

In our daily lives, in our relationships, in our work, in our advocacy, in our prayer, can you say you are striving to be (and are) a bridge of unity, an ambassador of hope, an instrument of peace?

One of the great challenges of the Catholic both/and is how we hold together and of equal value seemingly opposing forces. We recognize the importance of both faith and reason, rights and responsibilities, prayer and action. As a result of reflecting upon this, we are able to understand and see more clearly how beautiful life is in its simplicity and complexity.

A seminary professor of mine once told me the Catholic both/and is like breathing. We can breathe with one lung—just like we can get by with faith and little reason, or vice versa—but we are made for and flourish when both are working to their fullest capacity and complimenting the other.

As each of us and each our families works to respond to the coronavirus, address systemic racism, advocate for the rights of immigrants, evangelizes, engages in any of the important and necessary work of discipleship, the best way to do it is with our lungs at full capacity, filled with the Holy Spirit. Pray for peace and work for justice. Evangelize and accompany. Believe in the Lord and search for the Truth.

Sincerely yours in Christ,
Fr. Patrick

Sloane Monroe Sheridan

Welcome, Sloane, and God bless your family!

During a time of prayer on Sunday or while viewing the Mass on TV or online, the faithful are encouraged to make an act of Spiritual Communion. This beautiful devotional practice in the Church is a real source of grace in Communion with our Lord. Below is an example of a prayer for Spiritual Communion.

My Jesus, I believe that you are present in the Most Holy Sacrament.

I love you above all things, and I desire to receive you into my soul.

Since I cannot at this moment receive you sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart.

I embrace you as if you were already there and unite myself wholly to you.

*Never permit me to be separated from you.
Amen.*

Parish/Community News

Annual Missionary Appeal

Every summer we welcome a group of religious missionaries, and a group of priest missionaries to St. Paul's. These missionaries, which are thoroughly vetted by the Archdiocese, rely on the generosity of the parishes they visit to support their vital work in the missions. In fact, when this year's missionary called me, she informed me that almost all of their religious community's financial support comes from these mission appeals in parishes.

Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, the missionaries are not able to do in-person appeals this summer. In our effort to support this community, I will run their appeal message in the bulletin for the month of July.

Here is the information Sr. Pedro Opara, this year's missionary representative, provided me on her community:

"The New Evangelization Sisters of Mother of Perpetual Help, Nigeria

The New Evangelization Sisters (NES) of Mother of Perpetual Help is an indigenous Religious Congregation founded on the 1st of July 1993 in response to the incessant call of the St. John Paul II to a new Era of Evangelization.

The New Evangelization Sisters are called to holiness of life to union with Christ in an interpersonal relationship. The NES live out this call, in particular, through the following practices:

- A daily hour of Eucharistic Adoration
- A daily hour of Bible Study, reflection and sharing
- Special Devotion to the Holy Spirit, the Principal agent of Evangelization, and to the Blessed Virgin Mary, Star of Evangelization

Mission / works

Our mission works include:

Primary Evangelization, Catechesis, Spiritual Animation, Clinical Services, Teaching, Outreaches to Schools, Homes, Prisons, Churches, Hospitals, Caring for the elderly, the Motherless, widows and the needy in our society.

Our Needs include:

- Assist the needy, the widows, and Motherless babies in Nigeria.
- Feeding the sisters in formation in Nigeria.
- Helping pay sisters tuition in College in Nigeria.
- Financing the works of Evangelization in Nigeria

We work here in the Archdiocese of Indianapolis, New York, South Africa, Rome, Austria, Tanzania, Burkina Faso and many dioceses in Nigeria.

Please I ask for your financial assistance in any way you can, nothing is so small. We appreciate your help especially to us in Africa. May the good Lord reward you abundantly for supporting the needy in Africa and especially in Nigeria. I regret that I cannot be in your parish in person to share our mission and works with you because of COVID 19. May the Lord protect you, bless you and your Families, Amen.

Sr. Pedro Opara (Mission Representative)"

To support the New Evangelization Sisters, please send any financial gifts to St. Paul and mark the gift, "Missionary Sisters." We will be sure to send them all of the money we raise.

REFLECT

FIRST READING

The Jewish sage speaks of God as master of all who judges us with clemency and governs us with leniency. What are some areas of your life that make you grateful for a merciful God?

SECOND READING

Paul teaches the Christians in Rome that the Spirit helps us "to pray as we ought." When do you find yourself most at prayer?

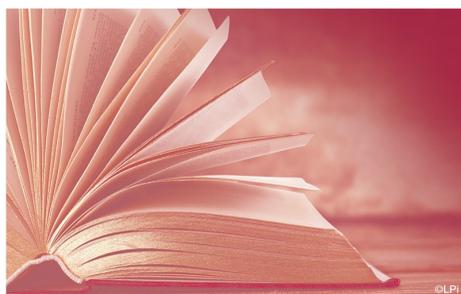

GOSPEL READING

We hear today a series of parables describing aspects of the kingdom of heaven: the parable of the weeds among the wheat, the parable of the mustard seed, and the parable of the yeast. What do you think makes Jesus' parables such an effective method for teaching about the mystery of the kingdom of heaven?

GOSPEL MEDITATION

Encourage Deeper Understanding of Scripture

A single mother who has a child with special needs works two jobs and sacrifices much of her own pleasures in order to be available for her son. Being the best mother possible is important to her and brings her joy. We are willing to make great and often heroic sacrifices for those people and things that matter most to us. Unless there is something of obvious importance to us in our immediate path, we can easily approach life in a more haphazard and chaotic way. We jump from one thing to another, responding to whatever it is that is competing for our attention at that moment. When everything is important, nothing is important.

If we do not wear the right pair of glasses, we can get all too easily caught up in the superficial stuff and neglect paying attention to the things that really matter. The kingdom of God is like the pearl of great price that is worth selling everything for so that it can be obtained. Based on where I invest my time and energy each day, I really wonder whether I am serving God's kingdom or my own. Have you ever considered tracking how you spend your time? You may be surprised! We allow our agendas to set the clock of our lives. We forget that joy and a true sense of purpose are not going to be found in following that timepiece. Joy is the expression of the happiness that is discovered when living in the kingdom of God. When our agenda matches God, not only do we leap for joy but God leaps with delight as well. Our well-being is what matters most to God.

Can you imagine God delighting in you? It is easy to deaden our senses to the whole reality of God and the joy that living the Gospel can bring. The demands of secular life and the agendas competing for our attention can quickly do that. We can get tired and spiritually apathetic. But if we can see our way through all of the conflicting voices and hear the voice of God, we can rediscover our zeal and passion and redirect our efforts. When we begin to see as God sees, we can rise each day and notice what really needs our attention and embrace it with exuberance. Be careful, though. It may not be what we originally had on our list. Responding to it, however, will be worth putting everything else aside.
