‘Laetare Sunday’ – the Joyous Day in Lent

“Joy in Lent” is the title of a book written by one of my seminary professors and I’m reflecting on it because this weekend we are celebrating “Laetare Sunday,” the Sunday where you and I are invited to rejoice ... to step out of our normal Lenten rigors and celebrate.

And we do that because Easter is within sight. “Laetare Sunday” is exactly 21 days before Easter Sunday, so on this day, rose-colored vestments are worn by the clergy. And in addition to attending Sunday Mass, a family might choose to mark this day with roses on the table or a special Sunday feast. It’s time to rejoice! Easter is near! Jesus rising from the dead is quickly approaching. On this day, let us all take some time to find the joy in our Lent. Peace! – Fr. Chris
