SOCIAL JUSTICE CORNER

It has been argued that no one else in history was as dedicated as St. Francis to imitate the life, and carry out the work of Christ, in Christ's own way. Christ was his model for life. His conversion from a life of wealth and materialism occurred while he was carrying out the work of Christ in assisting a leper. Francis, from that time forward, humbled himself by living in poverty, encouraging his fellow men to join him and created a sense of brotherhood that continues to this day. In our attempt to imitate Christ, listen to the words of Francis, "When you see a poor person, you must consider that person in the name of the one who comes, that is, the Christ who took upon himself our poverty and our infirmity. Thus the poverty and infirmity of this person are the mirror in which we must contemplate in love the poverty and infirmity that Our Lord Jesus Christ suffered in his own body in order to save humankind."

Francis calls us, not just to distribute our wealth, but to walk alongside the poor, to be with them in their great need. How can we "be with" those who are poor or marginalized? How can we share our common humanity?

WE NEED VOLUNTEERS
FOR ALL MINISTRIES
ESPECIALLY USHERS/
GREETERS

My Fellow Parishioners,

Today's readings should offer us a great deal of reassurance. I always am grateful that God's chosen people were so imperfect and that Christ chose such imperfect men to be his disciples. It should give us hope that, despite our many failings and imperfections, we too may find a place in Heaven when our earthly sojourn is over

In the first reading we encounter Elijah running away from his pagan queen, Jezebel, who wants to kill him for having slain all the priests of her god, Baal. As he is hiding out in a cave, the Lord comes to visit him as a tiny whisper, not in a manner that shows His power. What this tells us is that God speaks to us in the ordinary things of the world, in our families, in our illnesses and in our misfortunes even as we do His will. After all, Elijah is running for his life because he obeyed God. This is how he proved his loyalty to His Creator and eventually he wins Heaven without having to die first.

Then we have the second reading in which Paul recounts his sorrow over the fact that his own people have rejected Jesus. He lists the many gifts God gave them that they have ignored. He is so sorry for them that he says he would give up his own salvation if it meant they would come to a belief in Jesus. This of course is an overstatement but that is how the ancients made their point. Since most people could not read they had to hear something dramatic if they were to remember it. Paul regrets the fact that the Jews have not realized the great gift that Christ has offered them.

Finally, there is the Gospel message. The disciples have just seen further proof of Jesus' mastery after he has fed the people. Now Jesus goes off by himself to pray and tells the men to get in a boat to meet him on the other side. In the middle of the night He approaches them by walking on water during a storm. They are scared stiff. He tells them not to be afraid but they are. It is Peter who expresses their fear and asks for proof. While he initially accepts Jesus' offer to come to Him, he then doubts the Lord and begins to sink in the stormy waters. However, he yells for help and gets it at once. How often like Peter have we doubted Jesus is there for us when we need Him? How lucky we are to be like Peter and come back for help whenever we need it. God bless.

Dcn. Brian
