With great joy, we want to greet you all in this season of the central event in the history of humanity: the birth of the Word made flesh, the “day of God’s mercies”, as beautifully called by Saint John of Ávila.

Before the humanity of our Savior appeared, His goodness was hidden, although it already existed, for the mercy of the Lord is eternal. However, on Christmas Day, as Saint Bernard says, “it is as if God had poured out a bag full of His mercy upon the earth; a bag that would spill over in the Passion, so that our price, hidden in it, could be poured out; a small bag, but full”.

The priests and sisters of the Religious Family of the Word Incarnate wish you a Holy Christmas, that you may live it in recollection, peace, and spiritual joy.
