Synodality: A Listening Church

In the month of October, representatives from the Church throughout the world will gather in Rome for a Synod. This event flows from the revival of an ancient of dialogue among members of the church that leads to renewal in the Church.

The Synodal process is a listening process, which leads to discernment. The Second Vatican Council called for a renewal of this of 'being church'. The article below is written by Joe Paprocki, a Catholic writer, who provides a helpful introduction to the concept of Synodality. I will share Joe's reflections as a way of informing you and inviting you to pray over the next couple of weeks.

How an organization comes to a decision is as important as what is being decided. Every organization has a "way of proceeding" when it comes to making major plans and decisions. In some organizations, decisions are made by one person, with or without input from others. In other organizations, decisions are made by a democratic process (majority rule).

What about the Church? What is our "way of proceeding" when it comes to making plans and major decisions? While the Church has a hierarchy of authority, those in authority do not act as dictators making decisions in isolation. Nor is the Church a democracy, leaving decisions to a majority vote. The Church's way of proceeding is known as synodal (SIH-nuhd-al).

Simply put, a synod (SIH-nuhd) is an assembly of Church leaders who address and make recommendations regarding a situation or a matter of great importance. A synod is not a deliberative body with decision-making powers. Rather, the assembly of leaders meets to engage in a structured conversation surrounding an issue,... Continued on p. 2

Continued... with the goal of making recommendations for the final decision-maker. A synod of priests and lay people in a diocese takes place to advise the bishop. A synod of bishops takes place to advise the pope.

Synods do not follow Robert's Rules of Order (parliamentary procedure), which is a secular model for procedural meetings, with the end goal of making a decision based on a majority vote. Rather, a synod is characterized by a process of discernment and consensus. It is a spiritual rather than a political process. This synodal way of proceeding is characterized by:

Non-Confrontation. The goal of the synodal process is to engage key stakeholders in a non-confrontational approach to making a major decision or recommendation when there are deep emotions involved.

Engagement. The issue at hand is to be stated clearly. Everyone involved in the process must have an opportunity to state his or her views and to influence the synodal process.

Gathering of Diverse Ideas. A facilitator (usually not the final decision-maker) gathers the input and ideas of all participants in order to shape proposals that incorporate everyone's input. The proposals are not specific courses of action, but rather recommendations for direction—in other words, a way of moving forward.

"Taking the Temperature of the Room." Every participant has an opportunity to reflect prayerfully on the information available and to offer his or her stance on the proposal(s), whether that be voicing support, offering amendments and changes, disapproving of the proposal with explanations, or offering alternative solutions or directions.

Prayerful Discernment. All participants engage in prayerful reflection, asking that God's will be done and that the final recommendations further the Kingdom of God. Such prayer may include moments of silence as well as Scripture readings, intercessory prayer, and even singing and offering praise.

Theological Reflection. Scripture and Church teachings are consulted and reflected upon to shed light on the situation at hand.

Continuing Discussion. Discussion continues until any areas of disagreement are reduced or eliminated.

Consensus. The process continues until consensus is reached, meaning that the final recommendations are ones that everyone can abide by even if not fully in agreement. Such a process avoids parliamentary procedures that tend to favor those who are more assertive and vocal and discriminate against those who are more introspective.

Go Make of All Disciples

Check this out about prayer!

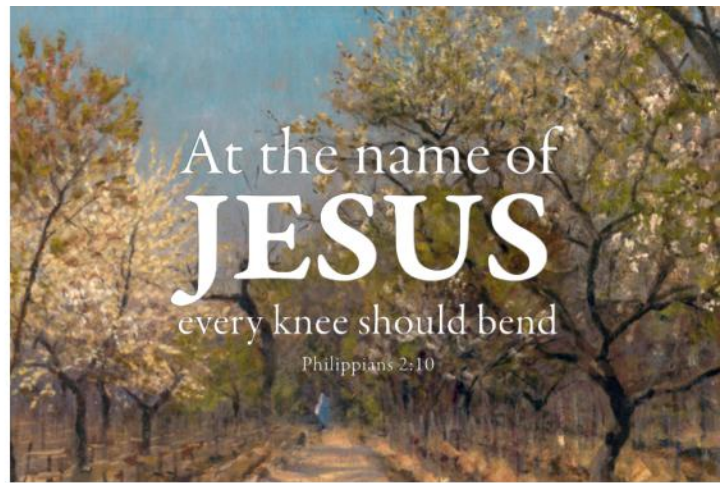

I was at a diocesan conference a couple weeks ago and the keynote speaker was talking about prayer and how there are times in her life that it is harder to pray. I can certainly relate. Sometimes, it is so free flowing, and sometimes, I struggle to open my Bible or my breviary. This is probably a natural feeling at times; however, even in times of struggle, that is typically when we need God the most. So, that relationship with God and our invitation into prayer is always a needed element of our lives. What are we praying for, or what words do we use? In the life of a disciple, it is our duty to pray for others. When we say, "I'll pray for you," actually pray with them! When I talk to people about this, the most common response is, "I don't know how to."

Prayer is simply conversation with God. If I go to my wife and ask her to help me with something, I don't need a memorized prayer to assist me. I just talk with her. At times, we complicate prayer. To pray for someone in the moment, is to simply have a conversation with God. We can ask God to heal someone, or lift burdens off their shoulders during a difficult time in their lives. Just try it out some time!

When this conference speaker discussed prayer and relationship with God, she gave this analogy: If someone called you and only spoke a poem to you and hung up the phone, you'd think that is a little odd. She was saying this in relation to us praying a prayer like the "Our Father." Now, I am not saying there is anything wrong with these prayers. We need to pray them often, but praying those do not get us off the hook with conversing with God...sharing our joys and sorrows, our struggles and our victories. If we never spoke with our spouse or our children, we wouldn't have an opportunity for those relationships to blossom. The same goes with prayer. If we don't talk with God, our relationship with God will not grow. Let us seek out ways to pray to God, but also to pray for one another!

God bless,

Sean Calvin

"Preventing Assisted Suicide in America"

We are in a battle for the heart and soul of Michigan and America. With the passing of the Abortion Amendment in Michigan and the loss of our prolife Michigan legislature, our state is under assault from those who want to destroy life. They have been actively working to abolish every prolife law that we have established along with stripping parental rights. Once again, there is talk of making assisted suicide and euthanasia laws a reality in Michigan. Together, we must stand against this evil!

When You Pray

A CLEAR PATH TO A DEEPER RELATIONSHIP WITH GOD

You know prayer is important but still find it challenging. Perhaps it's hard to find time, or you're unsure what to do when you pray. Or maybe you feel discouraged by your weaknesses and your inability to overcome them.

If you have any of these feelings, you are not alone. Many of the saints struggled in prayer. They were like us. But each time they fell, they got up again and learned to rely more on God's grace.

What God did in the lives of countless saints, he wants to do in the lives of ordinary people like us. And that's what this study is about: the journey of prayer God wants to take us on.

Program Begins: Tuesday, September 19th

Time/Location: 6:30-8:00pm, Sacred Heart Parish Offices (Room B)

Registration: Church Gathering Space, Sept. 10th & 17th or online on the parish website.

St. Joseph 2nd Graders

The second grade class is off to a wonderful start to the school year. Our second graders are building on the content they learned in first grade in addition to learning new skills such as writing in cursive.

Over the past several weeks in Social Studies, our students learned all about the United States government, how it functions, and the services it provides. The students wrote cards to our local police and fire departments thanking them for their service to our country.

In addition, the second grade class is learning about elections held for government officials. To build on this, the students held an election where they voted on their favorite type of apple. The students created voter registration cards, filled out ballots, and casted their vote. Green, granny smith apples won in an election landslide!
