Prophets

Question: The Church teaches that, through our baptism, we are made priest, prophet, and king like Christ. What does it mean for us to be prophets in the world today?

Answer: We are indeed sharers in the threefold mission of Christ. We live our “kingship” when we serve others in justice, work for the common good in society, and overcome sin in our own lives. Our “priestly” mission is lived when we unite our lives to Christ’s sacrifice on the cross, offering them up as a gift of love. We are also called to be prophets. Our lives may not look like Isaiah and Jeremiah of old — and perhaps desert living and locust eating like St. John the Baptist might feel out of reach — but this doesn’t nullify our invitation and obligation.

As baptized Christians, we have accepted the Gospel in faith. We’re also called to proclaim the Gospel as well. This may mean by giving Christ-centered advice to another person or defending truth when it’s threatened. It also means living our faith in deeds.

St. John Paul II writes that we are “called to allow the newness and the power of the Gospel to shine out every day in [our] family and social life” (On the Lay Members of Christ’s Faithful, 14). A prophet points to a higher truth beyond himself or herself. We live prophetically when we treat others as Christ treated people and when we arrange our schedule to prioritize those to whom we have the greatest obligation, including our families, as well as the poor and vulnerable around us. We live prophetically when we think critically about the culture around us and we allow our faith to inform our public life.

FIRST SUNDAY OF ADVENT

The Norms for the Distribution of Holy Communion Under Both Kinds, (USCCB, 2002)

The General Instruction of the Roman Missal (GIRM), third edition, 2011, no. 160, states that “the norm established for the Dioceses of the United States of America is that Holy Communion is to be received standing, unless an individual member of the faithful wishes to receive Communion while kneeling (Congregation for Divine Worship and the Discipline of the Sacraments, instruction Redemptionis Sacramentum, 25 March 2004, no. 91).

When receiving Holy Communion, the communicant bows his or her head before the Sacrament as a gesture of reverence and receives the Body of the Lord from the ministers. The consecrated host may be received either on the tongue or in the hand, at the discretion of each communicant. When Holy Communion is received under both kinds, the sign of reverence is also made before receiving the Precious Blood.

The minister raises the Host slightly and shows it to each, saying, “The Body of Christ.” The communicant replies, “Amen”, and receives the Sacrament either on the tongue or, where this is allowed, in the hand, the choice lying with the communicant. As soon as the communicant receives the Host, he or she consumes the whole of it. (GIRM, 161)

When receiving in the hand, the communicant should be guided by the words of St. Cyril of Jerusalem, writing around 400 AD: “When you approach, take care not to do so with your hand stretched out and your fingers open or apart, but rather place your left hand as a throne beneath your right, as befits one who is about to receive the King. Then receive him, taking care that nothing is lost.”

The GIRM also states that Holy Communion distributed under both species is a fuller sign of the Heavenly banquet (no. 281). “Holy Communion has a fuller form as a sign when it takes place under both kinds. For in this form, the sign of the Eucharistic banquet is more clearly evident and clearer expression is given to the divine will by which the new and eternal Covenant is ratified in the Blood of the Lord, as also the connection between the Eucharistic banquet and the eschatological banquet in the Kingdom of the Father.” (Eucharisticum Mysterium, May 25, 1967, no. 32)

No one is required to receive under both species, but the Church does encourage it. If one only partakes in the Host or only in the Precious Blood, they must remember they are receiving the fullness of Christ – Body, Soul, and Divinity. Thus, it is the choice of the communicant, not of the minister, to receive from the chalice. (Norms, no 46)

For the reception of the Precious Blood, the GIRM, no. 286 states: “Each communicant, after receiving the Body of Christ, moves to the minister of the chalice and stands facing him. The minister says, “The Blood of Christ”, the communicant replies, “Amen”, and the minister hands over the chalice, which the communicant raises to his or her mouth. Each communicant drinks a little from the chalice, hands it back to the minister, and then withdraws.” The only ministers who communicate themselves are Bishops and priests. Deacons and lay persons are to be ministered to and are never to communicate themselves. For this reason, it is not proper, at any time, to take the Host to the Chalice and dip the Host into the Precious Blood.

PRIMER DOMINGO DE ADVIENTO

Normas para la Distribución de la Sagrada Comunión bajo las dos Especies (USCCB, 2002)

La Institución General del Misal Romano (3a edición, no. 160) dice que, "La norma establecida para las diócesis de los Estados Unidos de América es que los fieles reciban la Sagrada Comunión de pie, a no ser que alguno de los fieles desee recibir la Comunión de rodillas (Congregación para el Culto Divino y la Disciplina de los Sacramentos, Instrucción Redemptionis Sacramentum, 25 de marzo de 2004, n. 91).

Al recibir la Sagrada Comunión, el comulgante inclina la cabeza ante el Sacramento como gesto de reverencia y recibe el Cuerpo de Cristo de manos del ministro. La hostia consagrada se puede recibir ya sea en la lengua o en la mano a discreción de cada comulgante. Cuando la Sagrada Comunión se recibe bajo ambas especies, el gesto de reverencia se hace también delante de la Preciosa Sangre antes de recibirla.

Si la Comunión se efectúa sólo bajo la especie de pan, el sacerdote, teniendo la hostia un poco elevada, se la muestra a cada uno diciéndole: El Cuerpo de Cristo. El que va a comulgar responde: Amén y recibe el Sacramento en la boca, o en los lugares donde está concedido, en la mano, según su elección. El que comulga, inmediatamente después de recibir la hostia la consume íntegramente. (GIRM, 161).

Al recibir en la mano, el comulgante debe guiarse por las palabras de San Cirilo de Jerusalén, escribiendo alrededor del año 400 DC: "Cuando te acerques, ten cuidado de no hacerlo con la mano extendida y los dedos abiertos o separados, sino más bien coloca tu mano izquierda como un trono debajo de tu derecha, como corresponde a alguien que está a punto de recibir al Rey. Entonces recíbelo, cuidando de que nada se pierda".

La Institución General del misal Romano también afirma que la Sagrada Comunión distribuida bajo ambas especies es un signo más completo del banquete celestial (no. 281). La sagrada Comunión tiene una expresión más plena por razón del signo cuando se hace bajo las dos especies, ya que en esa forma es donde más perfectamente se manifiesta el signo del banquete eucarístico, y se expresa más claramente la voluntad divina con que se ratifica en la Sangre del Señor la Alianza nueva y eterna, y se ve mejor la relación entre el banquete eucarístico y el banquete escatológico en el reino del Padre.

Nadie está obligado a recibir bajo ambas especies, pero la Iglesia lo alienta. Si uno sólo participa en la Hostia o sólo en la Preciosa Sangre, debe recordar que está recibiendo la plenitud de Cristo – Cuerpo, Alma y Divinidad. Por lo tanto, es la elección del que comulga, no del ministro, recibir del cáliz. (Normas, n° 46)

Para la recepción de la Preciosa Sangre, la Institución General del Misal Romano dice: "Si la Comunión de la Sangre se realiza bebiendo del cáliz, el que comulga, después que recibió el Cuerpo de Cristo, pasa ante el ministro del cáliz y espera de pie. El ministro dice: La Sangre de Cristo; y el que comulga responde: Amén. El ministro le da el cáliz y el que comulga lo lleva con sus manos a la boca. El que comulga bebe un poco del cáliz, lo restituye al ministro y se retira.

Saint of the Week

Saint Andrew was a fisherman in Galilee, along with his brother, Peter, when they were called by Jesus to leave their boat and become fishers of men. John's Gospel also places him as a follower of John the Baptist before he came to be one of Jesus' twelve Disciples. Beyond the scant references in the Gospels, not much is known of Saint Andrew's life. According to Christian tradition Saint Andrew, like many of his fellow Disciples, went out into Greece and Turkey to preach the Good News. A 4th century account of the saint's life tells of his martyrdom by crucifixion in Patras. Medieval accounts describe the cross used as X-shaped because Andrew said he was not worthy to die on the same style of cross as Jesus.

Famously, Saint Andrew is the patron Saint of Scotland, the country's flag bearing the X-shaped cross associated with him. Legends claim that the saint either traveled to Scotland to spread the Gospel or that his relics were brought there by St. Regulus who had a vision telling him to take the bones to the end of the earth. Regulus set out and was shipwrecked on the coast of Scotland. Today relics of St. Andrew which had been held by the Vatican are now at a shrine in Patras.
